

U.K. Scraps Battleships For Roving Nuclear Fleet

Atom Task Force Key to New Navy

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced that four of her five battleships will be scrapped this year in a thorough reorganization of the Royal Navy for nuclear warfare.

In place of the battleships—backbone of Britain's Second World War fleet—the navy will concentrate on "roving" task forces built around aircraft carriers equipped with nuclear and rocket weapons.

Lord Selkirk, first lord of the admiralty, revealed the new program today in a parliamentary memorandum on navy estimates.

mates for the coming financial year. It is part of Britain's sweeping five-year plan to reshape her defence establishment with prime reliance on the hydrogen bomb.

Critics of the program claim it will reduce the "senior service" with its proud tradition as a great sea power since the days of Drake and Nelson, to a second-class navy.

Asdic Sub Detection Improved

But Lord Selkirk said today: "The role of the navy, modified and developed in the way that has been described, continues to be of greatest importance to this country's defence."

One notable disclosure, in view of Russia's growing submarine fleet, is that a new asdic set (submarine detector) has been produced "with several times greater range than anything we have possessed previously."

Another important disclosure was that Britain has a new atom-bomb-carrying naval plane, the NA-39, under development. It was described as "a most formidable addition to the striking power of the Royal Navy."

The four battleships to be scrapped are the King George V, Duke of York, Anson and Howe. Only the Vanguard, youngest of the five and now on reserve, will be retained.

Selkirk said the chief aim of the "roving" fleet of aircraft carrier task forces is to operate for long periods independently of conventional shore bases.

At present Britain has an operational fleet of 270 vessels, including six aircraft carriers, nine cruisers, 21 destroyers and 41 submarines. These are backed by a reserve fleet of more than 400 ships, including six aircraft carriers, 11 cruisers, 36 destroyers, 109 frigates, 19 submarines, 189 minesweepers and the battleship Vanguard.

FAST WORK AS 'COPTER CRASHES

Three Rescued From Strait

A United States Navy helicopter crashed in Juan De Fuca Strait about 20 miles from Victoria Thursday, and three men aboard were saved by prompt action by the Port Angeles Coast Guard.

The survivors were in the water for less than 20 minutes before being picked up by a coast guard helicopter.

The crashed craft was on a routine flight to the naval air station at Whidby Island. Piloted by Chief Aviation Pilot A. K. Babbitt, it had picked up a passenger at the Port Angeles Coast Guard station, and was airborne at 3:14 p.m.

"MAYDAY" At 3:16 p.m., the operator on duty at the coast guard air station control tower, Robert Blivens, heard a "Mayday" call from the navy copter. (Mayday is the voice radio distress signal.)

The "Mayday" was repeated three times. Blivens answered the call, but received no reply.

He immediately alerted the Coast Guard operations office, and at 3:18—two minutes after the distress call—a Sikorsky helicopter took to the air.

Following the flight plan of the downed craft, the rescue copter spotted the three survivors in the water, eight miles east of Ediz Hook, at 3:26 p.m. All three were wearing life jackets. The rescue craft lowered a line, picked one man out of the water, and took him to the beach, near Dungeness.

It then returned, rescued the other two, and ferried them to the coast guard station at Port Angeles.

The coast guard cutters and an amphibian plane also took part in the rescue operation. The survivors were in hospital.

A. K. BABBITT ... saved from icy strait

28 minutes after the "Mayday" call was heard.

All three men were reported in good condition today, suffering from extreme shock from the cold water, and minor cuts and bruises.

Passengers in the crashed helicopter, which lies in 120 feet of water, were G. W. Huntley and R. B. Everly.

Pilot of the coast guard helicopter was Lt.-Cmdr. D. Gershowitz.

U.S. Warns Mid-East: Don't Meddle in Jordan

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

The United States has warned Israel, Syria, Egypt and other Middle Eastern countries not to worsen the situation in Jordan, where the government staged a massive clean-up of leftist leaders and general calm prevailed today.

King Hussein, the victor after 48 hours of crisis caused by pro-Communist elements, was firmly in command of things. His army held the nation in the iron grip of martial law with a ban in effect on all public prayer services.

Some estimates said as many as 600 persons had been picked up for questioning, many of them from the ultra-nationalist, pro-Soviet, pro-Egyptian and pro-Syrian parties who had supported ousted former Premier Suleiman Nabulsi's coalition government.

One Amman spokesman said the former premier was a "fugitive."

But Nabulsi later was reported to be at his home in Amman, although he refused to see newsmen or any other callers.

White also said that the situation in Jordan "if anything, is perhaps a little better (today) than yesterday," and that King Hussein has not asked the United States for assistance during the present emergency.

The decision to speed the U.S. Sixth Fleet into the Eastern Mediterranean in a forceful show apparently has had a calming effect.

Tornado Rips Oklahoma Town, Damage Heavy

HOLDENVILLE, Okla. (AP)—A tree-top-high tornado hit this small Oklahoma town Thursday night, felling power lines, smashing store fronts in a three-block downtown area and hitting some houses. No one was injured.

The Holdenville Red Cross said that about 25 or 30 homes had been damaged. A tentative damage estimate was $150,000.

One person was killed and 18 others hurt as a tornado swooped down on the little southeast Nebraska town of Milford Thursday night.

Between 75 and 100 Milford homes and business establishments were demolished or damaged.

Eyewitnesses reported "utter confusion" at Milford where power and telephone lines were knocked out.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Thunderstorms rumbled across northwestern Texas today, threatening still more floods in this storm-battered state.

Governor Price Daniel said he will ask President Eisenhower to designate the worst-stricken areas for federal disaster relief.

Heavy Clouds Hinder Search For B.C. Plane

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy clouds hampered the search today for a light plane, missing with three men aboard on a flight from Penticton to Vancouver.

RCAF officials said one aircraft returned this morning and another was on its way back from searching the area west of Hope, 100 miles east of here. A Dakota and an Expediter were searching further east under a low ceiling.

Missing since Wednesday night are: Walter L. Dalton, 42, insurance and real estate executive from Vancouver; W. Robert McLachlan, 37, head of a mortgage corporation here; and Fred McDowell, 46-year-old public relations officer and free-lance radio producer.

The three left Penticton, 200 miles east of here, at 7:46 p.m. Wednesday. They were last heard from flying over Penticton, 150 miles east of here.

Reports of wreckage washed ashore on Lasqueti Island in Georgia Strait have been discounted as a clue to the missing plane.

'WAR INEVITABLE'

War is inevitable, according to ex-Victorian John Plant, above, former air vice marshal in the RCAF, who is visiting Victoria. (See interview on page 31.)

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, change us, and everything will be changed. Keep us from quarrelling with our circumstances. Take from us complaining spirits. Save us from self-pity. Give us confidence that we shall be able to do all things through Christ who is our strength. Give us the will to say a kind word today, to do a generous deed. Thou wilt not fail us; in Christ's name. Amen.

PRINCESS JOAN DAMAGED IN CRASH

Gash in hull of Princess Joan is about 30 feet aft of bow on port side. Prow of freighter sliced into unoccupied cabin in crew's quarters. CPR hopes to have ship back in service by first of week. (AP Wirephoto.)

Victoria Ferry Near Disaster Off Sidney

The veteran CPR steamer Princess Joan brushed close to a major sea disaster at 2:05 a.m. today when she was in collision with the Japanese freighter Tatakawa Maru off Sidney.

The raking prow of the freighter sliced into the Joan, about 30 feet abaft the port bow, in a dense fog.

The passenger steamer was deeply cut. The freighter's prow plowed into a crew cabin, unoccupied at the time.

The wound in the Joan was well above the waterline. A CPR spokesman said the steamer was at dead slow at the time, and that the freighter was believed to have been proceeding at about six knots.

Passengers—many of whom were awakened by the constant hooting of the ships' foghorns—rushed on deck at the time of the crash.

NO PANIC

There was no panic, but some felt an "Andrea Doria" disaster had been averted only by a miracle, and smart ship-handling on the part of the Joan's officers, lookout men, and helmsman.

The Joan, night steamer to Vancouver, was just over two hours out of Victoria at the time of the crash.

The Tatakawa Maru was bound from Vancouver to Seattle.

The Joan reached Vancouver only minutes after her scheduled arrival time of 7 a.m.

TO SEATTLE

The freighter, which received no measurable damage, docked at Seattle at 9:30 a.m.

The seaman lookout on duty when the collision occurred, said, "We didn't have a chance to miss it at all."

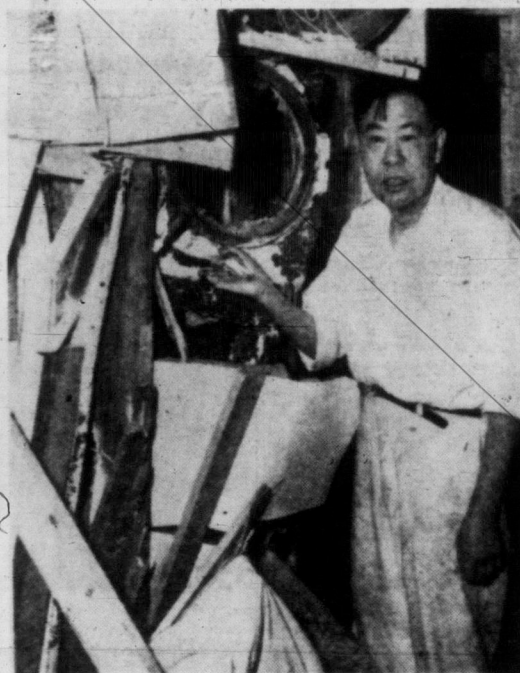

Don Cymbal, 19, said he asked the other lookout, Klaus Daniso, to remain with him at their bow lookout position when he went on duty at 2 a.m.

"I wanted him to stay with me because the fog was thick and we knew another ship was close by," said Cymbal.

YELLED TO BRIDGE

"It was about five minutes after that we saw a light on the port side. I yelled it up to the bridge."

"The light appeared as if it was going to pass alongside of us. Then, all of a sudden,

MISSED DEATH BY INCHES

Stanley Duk, cook on Princess Joan, missed death by 12 inches when prow of Japanese freighter entered ship close to his head. He was thrown from bunk by impact, trapped when door jammed, had to be rescued by fire axes. (AP Wirephoto.)

This big bow burst out of the fog right in front of us. "I yelled up 'full astern,' but I don't know whether or not they heard it on the bridge."

Mrs. Anna Dingman of Vancouver, returning home with Miss Jean Woodrow following a vacation in Victoria, said that around 1:30 a.m. the Princess Joan, which had been moving slowly, stopped altogether.

"We sat up in our cabin beds fully dressed because we sensed that something might happen," Mrs. Dingman said. "Miss Woodrow had just got out of her bed to look out the porthole when the freighter struck us, and she was thrown to the floor."

Officers cut their way through the door of the cabin in which the two Chinese cooks—Stanley Duk, 55, of Vancouver and Henry Choy, 58, of Victoria—were trapped, and found them unharmed.

"I could hear people rushing about the corridors of the Princess Joan. I looked out of my cabin window and less than 50 yards away I could see the dim lights of the Tatakawa Maru moving towards our ship, which had come almost to a full stop in the fog."

"Later, Captain John A. Campbell of the Joan told me the Japanese vessel was moving at about six knots when it struck the bow of the Joan ...

"SUDDEN MILD BUMP" "When the crash came it was a sudden mild bump. The Joan rolled away. The Tatakawa Maru had its engines going full reverse, but it wasn't enough to avert the collision."

Captain Campbell had been called to the bridge to supervise when the fog patch settled. He said: "I was only there three or four minutes when we collided. I don't know what happened. We took the correct action by turning to starboard."

CAMERA CATCHES COMET

Comet 1956-H, caught in this photograph through a University of Michigan telescope Thursday night has been the elusive quarry of astronomers at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich who saw it last night but were unable to photograph it because of low clouds. Photo shows 5,000,000 of the 7,000,000-mile-long comet. Bright area is the centre of the comet and the two streaks are its two tails, unusual on a comet. The brighter tail goes away from the sun, the other toward it. Small dots are stars. (AP Wirephoto.)

B.C. Drops Plan For Temporary Gov't House

(See also Page 10)

Plans to find a temporary Government House for Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross have been dropped, Works Minister W. N. Chant said today.

It is understood Mr. and Mrs. Ross will continue to use the vice-regal suite of the Empress Hotel while a new residence is being constructed on the site of the old building destroyed by fire last week.

Government House offices are now located in the main Legislative Building.

FOR CENTENNIAL

Premier Bennett said at his press conference Wednesday he still hopes that the new Government House will be completed for the B.C. centennial next year.

Plans for the new building were to be discussed by the cabinet today.

The premier said he hopes it will retain the same "atmosphere," particularly inside.

Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross apparently decided against making a move into a temporary residence. They are leaving this weekend for Europe and will be away for the next six weeks.

Approaches were made to owners of a few homes in the Victoria area suitable for a temporary Government House before it was decided to continue the present arrangement.

U.S. Accepts Egypt's Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States agreed today to accept Egypt's Suez plan on a provisional basis, but reserved its final acceptance until the plan has been put to trial.

The U.S. position was laid before the UN Security Council by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who said the plan announced by the Egyptian government earlier this week left much to be desired.

Lodge announced that, pending a final settlement, U.S. vessels will be authorized to pay tolls to Egypt only under protest, as had been the case since President Nasser nationalized the 103-mile waterway last July.

French delegate Guillaume Georges-Picot blasted the Egyptian plan as "a unilateral act." He said it provides no guarantees for freedom of shipping, no guarantees for the co-operation of Egypt and the users and no guarantees for improvement of the canal.

CCF PARLEY ATTACKS WENNER-GREN DEAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two top executives of the CCF indicated today the Wenner-Gren deal in northern British Columbia will be used as anti-Social Credit ammunition in the coming federal election.

Robert Strachan, provincial leader of the party, said in his opening address to the 24th provincial CCF convention that the multi-million-dollar industrial proposal "clearly indicated that Social Credit is carrying out the give-away policy of the coalition government."

Mr. Strachan's views were echoed by Alex Macdonald, president of the B.C. party, who said that "never was the alliance of big business and government more obvious" than in the Wenner-Gren deal.

BROTHERLY DISAGREEMENT — President Eisenhower (right) laughed off criticism of his budget and his Administration by his brother, Edgar (centre). The Chief Executive said at his news conference that "Edgar has been criticizing me since I was five years old." At La Grange, Ill., a younger brother of the President, Earl (left), defended Edgar's "right" to criticize the budget, and expressed doubts of his own over federal aid to higher education. The three are shown here in Philadelphia in August, 1955.

Helicopter Firms Get Together To Standardize Charter Tariff

Executives of Canada's 14 helicopter companies met in Victoria today to hammer out a standard charter tariff for helicopter travel.

They conferred privately at the spring conference of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, and suggested rates were discussed.

The final tariff, however, will be decided at an executive conference in Quebec City next November.

"We are not aiming at a standard rate so much as standard conditions of carriage and standard methods of assessing charges," said William McLeod, superintendent of the helicopter division of Pacific Western Airlines, Vancouver.

The closed meeting was attended by executives of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, and suggested rates were discussed.

GAME OFFICE SKUNKED

Pretty 'Kitty' Home in City?

Pepe le Pew, skunk sans smell, today awaits ze owner. Pepe, a deodorized animal, is resting in the home of game warden W. J. Lenfesty, Brentwood. The skunk was picked up Wednesday near Parson's Bridge.

It definitely has an owner somewhere as there are no deodorizing stations in the woods, and besides, there are no wild skunks on Vancouver Island.

A game department official said Pepe remains unclaimed probably because the owner doesn't possess a licence.

There are no actual skunk licences, like dog tags, but to own a wild fur-bearing animal a permit must be obtained from the provincial agricultural department.

The box score on skunks to date is one found, one lost this week.

Negro Youth Shot on Street

CHICAGO (AP) — A 17-year-old Negro was killed by a shot-gun blast as he walked along a street.

The shooting of Curtis Bevins climaxed a fresh outbreak of teenage violence in Chicago. The gun was fired from a moving car containing two youths and a 17-year-old girl.

Police said David Vandersteeg, 19, a laborer, admitted he fired the shot-gun.

B.C. Airlines Will Continue Operation Here

B.C. Airlines, the charter line operated by Victoria pilot Maurice McGregor, will continue under its present program of expansion to operate float planes from Esquimalt, Mr. McGregor said today.

The company holds the only air harbor licence for Esquimalt.

Stocky, plain-spoken Mr. McGregor is attending a spring conference of the Air Industries and Transport Association at the Empress Hotel.

"Although developments have made it necessary to move our operational and maintenance headquarters to Vancouver, our float planes will continue to be based here," he said.

In addition, the company will have machines available at Vancouver and other bases. It operates 30 Beaver and Cessna aircraft.

Frost Backs Diefenbaker

PC Chief Opens June 10 Campaign; Promises Tax Cuts, New Fiscal Deal

By ALAN DONNELLY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—John Diefenbaker, promising tax cuts for Canadians and a new fiscal deal for the provinces, heads into his federal election campaign with a pledge of support from Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative organization in Ontario.

The PC national leader told an election rally here Thursday night that a federal Conservative government, if elected June 10, would carry out those promises.

He also outlined a national development policy which he said would benefit all parts of Canada, open the northland and ensure control by Canadians of this country's "economic destiny."

Before the meeting in Toronto's Massey Hall, which launched his 6½-week cross-country tour, Mr. Diefenbaker conferred privately with the Ontario premier.

Mr. Frost later told a reporter: "We are giving him every possible encouragement. My people are all behind him."

'I Always Back a Winner'

"I always back a winner," he said. At the rally he presented Mr. Diefenbaker as "the next prime minister of Canada" and led in three cheers for the party's national leader.

Mr. Frost's assurance of support was the strongest statement he has yet made on that point.

At Parliament's dissolution, Conservatives held 32 of the 85 Ontario constituencies in the Commons. That compared with Premier Frost's backing of 83 members in the 98-seat legislature.

Conservatives have been out of power at Ottawa for 22 years, with five successive Liberal election victories. At the close of the last session, party standings in the 265-seat Commons were: Liberals 168; Conservatives 50; CCF 22; Social Credit 15; Independent 3; vacant 7.

Today, Mr. Diefenbaker speaks in Welland, Niagara Falls and Newcastle, Ont., before swinging to Quebec City for a Saturday night speech. He campaigns next week in the Maritimes.

He made his 40-minute speech Thursday night—a broad review of policy—before an estimated 2,600 persons in the 2,800-seat hall.

"It is time to take the unrepentant tax-masters off the backs of the Canadian people," he said.

"... When the Conservative party forms the government of this country, a session of Parliament will be called to reduce taxation."

As for social security—pensions, veterans' payments and the like—the increases announced in last month's federal budget were "meagre and niggardly." A Conservative government would set payments high enough to meet needs and tie subsequent adjustments to living costs and increase in national productivity.

He specified no amounts.

Blasts 'Canada Last' Policy

"I do not think that the Canadian people are asking for political carpentry for vote purposes."

His party's "new national policy" would encourage establishment of new industries to process natural resources, instead of exporting them, and would give Canadians stronger tax incentives to invest in ownership of Canadian firms.

Canadians were beginning to wonder how long Canada could remain independent with the growing dominance of foreign-owned business. Foreign investment was to be welcomed and should be treated fairly "but a sense of national destiny for Canada calls for it being directed to the maximum benefit of Canada."

It was a "Canada last" policy to advocate, as the Liberals had, the shipping of Canadian iron ore through the St. Lawrence Seaway to United States mills.

Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated his charge that the Liberal government has denied its responsibility to the people's elected representatives in Parliament. Parliament had been "sorely wounded and robbed of its rights."

A Conservative government would abolish closure, the parliamentary device used last year to limit debate and permit passage by a government deadline of the controversial natural gas pipeline. It would be abolished to prevent possible misuse in future.

Mr. Diefenbaker listed a series of other moves which a Conservative government would take: increase population by vigorous immigration, provide "adequate parity" for farm product prices by a flexible price-support program, curb the dangers of monopoly as shown in television broadcasting and air transport, and establish a committee to promote growth of small businesses.

Cabinet Changes Announced by PM

(See also pages 32, 33)

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has two new cabinet members with vote-catching potentials for the Liberals.

As the June 10 general election approaches, the thickly populated Toronto area gets its first minister in 12 years. Montreal gets one, too.

The new cabinet members announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent Thursday are Hon. Lionel Chevrier, 54, reported as being groomed for Liberal strong man in Quebec and eventual party leader, and Paul Hellyer, who gives cabinet representation to Toronto at the unusually young age of 33.

MINOR TASK

The silver-haired Mr. Chevrier, former transport minister, has been 25,000-a-year president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority since 1954. For the present, he takes over the relatively minor job of president of the Privy Council.

Mr. Hellyer, Commons member for Toronto Davenport, becomes associate defence minister, a title not used since 1954. For 14 months he had been parliamentary assistant to Defence Minister Campney at $14,000 a year. His new job pays $27,000.

Along with these appointments, Mr. St. Laurent disclosed at a press conference that Mr. Chevrier is expected to run in Montreal Laurier and that the sitting member for that riding—Eugene LeFrancis—has been appointed to the Senate.

The prime minister said no appointment has been made immediately to Mr. Chevrier's vacated position as head of the organization carrying out Canada's $385,000,000 share of seaway navigation facilities, but that vice-president Charles Gaisie will be acting head pending an appointment.

Expectations are that Mr. Gaisie will eventually be confirmed in the job.

Reprimand, Fine For RCAF Pilot

WINNIPEG (CP)—FO John S. Sargent, 26, of Westwood, Ont., today was given a severe reprimand and fined $200 by a five-member RCAF court martial after being found guilty Thursday of three charges in connection with the crash landing of a Mitchell bomber Feb. 17.

FO Sargent was the pilot of the plane which plowed into a residential area in nearby St. James while attempting to land at Winnipeg's Stevenson field at the end of a training flight from Vancouver. No one was seriously injured.

The pilot was convicted of negligently failing to make a refueling stop during the flight and negligently failing to take appropriate emergency landing action on his approach to the Winnipeg field. He had pleaded not guilty to the charges.

A third charge, one to which he pleaded guilty, was of unlawfully deviating from authorized flight orders. FO Sargent was found not guilty of a fourth charge of making a false entry in a document required for official purposes.

After the verdict was read to the court Thursday afternoon it was adjourned until today, when it received submissions on the question of sentence.

The court had been told by its legal adviser that there was no element of wilfulness involved and if a conviction was recorded the penalty could reach a maximum of two years in prison.

Earlier, FO Sargent admitted he made an error in judgment.

"Now that I look back my decision was not the correct one," he testified. "If I had to do it over again I would land at Rivers to refuel."

LACKED TRAINING

He told the court that he had done no long-range flight training.

Sgt. Ldr. J. F. Brenagh, defence counsel, said that while the decision not to refuel at Rivers was not a wise one it was not a decision taken negligently.

"MINUTE MAGIC" PASTRY

Tender — Flaky — Easy!

COVERED PIE

Sift together:

2 1/4 cups sifted Pastry flour

2 cups sifted All-Purpose flour

1 tsp. salt

Combine and add to dry ingredients:

1/2 cup ST. LAWRENCE CORN OIL

1/4 cup water

Mix gently with a fork until dry ingredients are moist. Divide the dough in half. Place 1/2 of the dough on a sheet of wax paper, sealed to the working surface by dampening the table lightly (this prevents the paper from slipping during the rolling). Cover the dough with a second sheet of wax paper, and with a rolling pin roll it out to fit the pie pan. Peel off top layer of wax paper. Place pie pan over pastry and invert so that pastry is evenly placed in the pan.

Pull off the wax paper, and trim. Fill the pie shell.

Roll out the remainder of the dough using the same method. Peel off the top layer of wax paper. Slash the pastry to allow steam to escape. Invert the pastry over the filled pie so that the wax paper is now on top. Pull off the wax paper, press-edges together and flute, if desired.

Bake in a moderately hot oven (425°F.) for 40 to 45 minutes.

SINGLE CRUST

Sift together:

1 1/4 cups sifted Pastry flour

or 1 cup sifted All-Purpose flour

1/2 tsp. salt

Combine and add to dry ingredients:

1/4 cup ST. LAWRENCE CORN OIL

2 tbsp. water

Bake in a hot oven (450°F.) for 10 to 12 minutes.

Giants Face to Face

THE KINGDOM OF JORDAN continues in a state of inner turmoil today. It is difficult to see what will be the outcome of King Hussein's struggle against leftist elements in his country. But whatever happens will have important repercussions in the Middle East and the world.

The battle being waged by the young king has its counterpart in the wider field. It finds the Arab countries split into two factions — Iraq and Saudi Arabia supporting the pro-Western monarch, and Syria and Egypt backing the political and military leaders who have challenged him.

More important, the struggle is a segment of the greater East-West conflict, and any outbreak of force could immediately bring the two great powers, Russia and the United States, into a head-on clash.

In today's complicated situation several vital facts stand out.

First, the United States has clearly indicated that it intends to be an active participant in Middle East affairs. The Eisenhower Doctrine is shown to have been no mere structure of words but a declaration of policy to be put into practice when occasion demands.

The U.S. President yesterday stated his concern that Jordan retain its "independence and integrity." It is no coincidence that this is the exact phraseology of the Eisenhower doctrine.

His statement followed shortly on a charge by King Hussein that his country was threatened by "international communism." This, too, is a phrase used in the Eisenhower Doctrine. Aggression by international communism was to be the trigger for American intervention, provided the victim of aggression applied for aid.

As of this writing Jordan has not asked for U.S. assistance. There is, indeed, some question whether the condition of communist aggression from an outside source actually exists. Syrian troops are on Jordanian soil, but they have remained from an earlier date when they entered by arrangement to meet the threat of war with Israel. The Jordanian trouble seems to be a domestic matter at the moment, although there is no doubt that agitators and aid have been supplied by Syria and Egypt.

In any case, the eastward movement of the powerful U.S. Mediterranean fleet gives fair warning that the United States will take a hand if necessary. The vacuum left by Britain's withdrawal from the Middle East is being filled.

A second obvious fact is that the West is of one mind in the present crisis. Britain has expressed in most emphatic terms its concern over threats to Jordan's continued stable existence. Further steps by Jordan's impatient neighbors could bring united Western action, based on the legal foundation of the Eisenhower Doctrine or the agreement of 1950 whereby the boundaries of the Middle Eastern lands were guaranteed.

This point brings up the third important consideration: the attitude of Russia. So far the Soviet Union has taken no direct action in the affair, except insofar as Russian influence may have fostered revolt in Jordan. But Moscow has suggested that if relations between the two countries were closer, Russia could consider extensive financial aid to replace the $35,000,000 a year subsidy that ceased when Jordan cut off British influence.

Obviously Russia is intensely interested in Jordan's fate. A communist Jordan would help to extend the pro-Soviet sphere of influence that has been established in Egypt and Syria. But American words and action have given fair warning that this development cannot be imposed by force, without inviting force in retaliation.

Whether Russia is willing to risk a war, which could spread, in furtherance of its Middle Eastern plans remains a prime question. President Eisenhower's quick move may well have provided an effective deterrent.

College and Timing

DR. H. F. ANGUS, RETIRED dean of the University of British Columbia, has given good advice to friends of Victoria College.

He has told them that the College will reach university status more easily if it maintains the existing partnership with U.B.C. Co-operation with Point Grey, he believes, is the most promising approach to that goal.

Dr. Angus speaks with authority. His opinion, moreover, is shared by many people here fully acquainted with the work of the College, its aspirations and its prospects.

There are numerous and excellent arguments in favor of Victoria College gaining full university status. The main issue, however, is one of timing. College supporters for years have foreseen its eventual growth into a degree-granting institution carrying four-year courses in arts and education. That is a natural process of evolution.

Undoubtedly the University of British Columbia authorities anticipate this eventuality. They also understand that the question is not why, but when.

Dr. Angus advises Victoria to maintain the close co-operation now existing between the College and the University of British Columbia. As long as that exists premature action can be avoided and, with it, possible hostility between the two institutions. To be most effective, they must move ahead amicably on the same road. If conflict arises between them, both will suffer—Victoria College most severely.

Women on the Job

UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS the "working mother" helps, rather than injures the status of the home, according to Professor Richard M. Titmuss, head of the Department of Social Science and Administration at the London School of Economics.

Discussing the subject during a visit to the United States, Prof. Titmuss sees the increase of Britain's women workers—an addition of 2,000,000 since the end of the war—as a revolutionary factor in family life. But it need not produce the "latch-key kids."

A general and desirable pattern has been established for the working mother in Britain. Under it the working wife leaves employment for the birth of her baby and remains with the child almost constantly until it is five—or reaches school age.

At that point the mother frequently resumes part-time work, fitting her employment schedule into her day so that maximum time can be given to the youngster's care. As the child grows older, the employment hours change. With the co-operation of industry, the woman often takes an evening shift from 6 to 9.30 and father stays home with the young son or daughter.

The result, as outlined in a survey of working mothers, has a multiple benefit. The woman's earnings improve the family's living standards. The father spends more time with the offspring. The national output of goods increases.

The "pubs" are suffering, Prof. Titmuss reports. "Drinking beer is going down. . . . TV watching is going up. . . ." Which may produce another sociological problem in the British family revolution now in progress.

Setting the Pace

IN THESE DAYS OF WIDESPREAD talk about juvenile delinquency and youth problems it is refreshing to get the other, and perhaps more representative, side of the picture. The visit of 76 Boy Scouts, here from all parts of the province to receive their Queen's Scout certificates, does much to put things in their proper perspective.

These young representatives of a famous world-wide movement have brought credit on themselves, their organization and their generation. Their smartness, courtesy and ability remind us that there are many thousands of their kind in the country, clean and active youngsters who in a few years will take their places as adult citizens.

They far outnumber the misfits and mischief-makers, and set the pace for the larger group of youths who may not belong to the Scouts but who benefit from the healthful environment which Scouting fosters in any community. All honor to these boys who have won Scouting's highest award. All honor to the generation which produced them.

The Eggs We Hope Won't Hatch

SEEN ONLY FROM AFAR

By B. A. TOBIN

The Patient Sasquatch

TALK OF Sasquatches, both on Vancouver Island and on the mainland, is being greeted with smiles, winks and rib-poking by the smart guys. While some folks comb ancient Indian legends, old newspaper files, early settlers' memories and other factual sources, those in the know nod wisely to each other. They're in on the joke. Nobody can fool them about such things. They can go along with a gag, their grins tell you, but you can't pull the wool over their eyes. They mention publicity stunts, chamber of commerce promotions, centennial advertising and other angles whenever the name Sasquatch comes up. The whole thing is settled as far as they're concerned, so let's get on with something sensible.

Tobin

Well, it may interest these wise people to hear that Sasquatches do exist. The conflicting reports we have about their appearance is not evidence that they are the product of someone's imagination. On the contrary, Sasquatches look different to different people because Sasquatches mean different things to different people.

As You Like It

Some authorities have described the Sasquatch as a hairy-looking man. One hunter swears one appeared to him as a "woman's figure." Some see them as small creatures, some as large. Some experience Sasquatches not so much as something they see, but as just a feeling that one has been in the vicinity recently.

The truth is that Sasquatches are the tangible incarnations of the spirit of pioneer days. Appropriately enough, they inhabit only the wilderness places, the high peaks and hidden valleys unvisited by man and hence the only untarnished, unpolluted areas left on earth.

This, indeed, is a sign by which you may distinguish the true reports of Sasquatch sightings from the false.

If someone claims that he saw a Sasquatch lurking by a dam or a power plant you will know immediately that he is lying or a victim of his imagination.

If he says he spied a Sasquatch cutting across a field near his house, or striding down a highway, no matter how remote, or loitering near a logging camp or idling along a deserted railway siding—you may confidently write the witness off as a trifler with the truth, or a man subject to hallucinations.

Sagahlie Illahee

The Sasquatch will be seen in no such places as these. He will frequent no hunter's cabin, no sportsman's trail, no resort, no spot on the earth in any way contaminated by man's presence.

Only on some distant peak above the snowline, on some steep slope where the timber is sparse and the breeze is thin in the blue air, in some far valley where the snow lies late in the year and no sound breaks the stillness for months at a time—only in such environments will you catch a glimpse of the Sasquatch.

And it will be only a glimpse if you see him at all: a half-perceived blur through a telescope from miles away on some day when drifting mists are wavering on the high summits or the sun-drenched air of summer shimmers in the trees.

Only then, if you are fortunate, will you lay an incredulous eye on the Sasquatch—an instant of spine-tingling excitement that will stay with you forever. Obviously few will ever have the chance.

Why this hermit-like shunning of civilization? Why does the Sasquatch avoid like the plague all that we hold dear in the way of material progress and hard-won development?

Stuff of Dreams

The answer, of course, lies in his nature. As the incarnation of the hopes and dreams of the old-timers, a bodily containment of the things for which they stood, there can be little for him in what our civilization has so far produced.

From their distant heights, as the years roll on, they will have seen us, the descendants of the pioneers, lay waste the ancient forests, burning through carelessness what we could not lift. They will have perceived from afar how we have scourged the earth, dredging up its mineral wealth and spewing the waste on the ground in hideous barren heaps.

They will have seen the streams blocked and rendered lifeless, the lakes strangled and bloated out of recognition; the clear skies fouled with smoke and fumes, the terrain scarred with highways beside which mounting ridges of wreckage and garbage bear mute testimony to the type of creature that uses them.

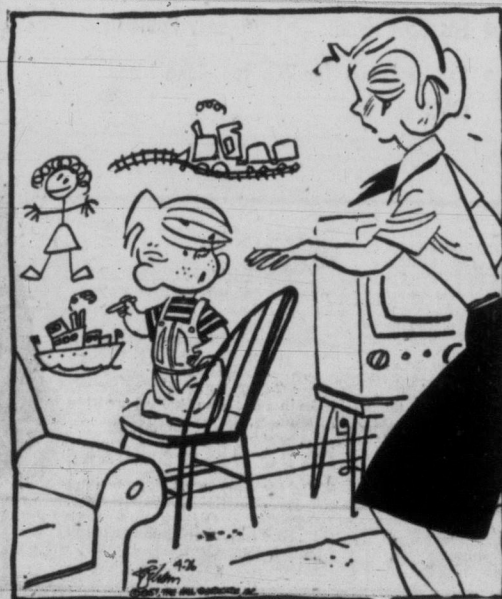

Small wonder that the Sasquatch has retreated to the last remote corners of the country, roaming the wooded side-hills where no axe or saw or engine has left its mark; where no beer bottle or rusted can, the inevitable spoor of man's passage, has yet been seen; where the taint of money and the fat smell of progress have not yet penetrated.

Lingers On

On the mighty breast of the hills, in the deep forests, by the purling headwaters of the still untamed rivers the Sasquatch, the soul of the pioneers, still lingers. He marks our strivings and our fumbling passage through the lowlands; he knows that we are an interim age, a passing phase of man's evolution, which in good time will develop into something approximating the hopes of our forefathers.

That better day will dawn, that better race will arrive—the Sasquatch knows it. But meanwhile the high peaks and the shadowed valleys must wait, the snow-line meadows must wait, the mountain springs and the eternal rocks must wait. The Sasquatch must wait. For the time of man's fulfillment is not yet.

As Our Readers See It

Auditorium With Murals

May I trespass upon your valuable space once again regarding the Centennial project for Victoria, in the hope that this important project will not be another muddle.

Let us clearly realize what is intended—surely it is for an edifice to commemorate our hundred years of founding, and not for a building that is the ordinary duty of every city to build for its civic purposes.

Victoria has needed, and still needs very badly, a civic auditorium for the use of all.

First of all there must be a suitable site, visible far out in the straits and surroundings in keeping with such a structure. The old Christ Church property is, I think, ideal.

If sufficient funds cannot be obtained, then the construction should be such that it can be added to as time goes on. In this way we will not plunge the city into unnecessary debt, but as the city expands and more room is needed for the structure, the land will be there without more expense. To assure this, let there be a firmly worded "trust" registered against the title. Let the building be of stone on the solid rock foundation, that this site provides. Let there be no shoddy materials and weak mixtures of cement, and let it be really fireproof.

The interior should commemorate the historic events as applicable to this area, and from the start, such as: the landing of the Spanish at Sooke; the arrival of the Discovery; the arrival of the Beaver; the arrival of Douglas and his party at Victoria from Fort Vancouver on the Columbia River; the great Fort Victoria (largest and best equipped on the Pacific coast). All scenes to be historically correct and to have permanent brass or stainless steel plates giving correct historic data.

The main auditorium could even be a correct reproduction of the interior of Fort Victoria. Many outstanding events could be made accurate from photographic reproduction, such as the part taken by Victoria in the wars since our founding, also perhaps showing the arrival of the two submarines when we were threatened in First World War by the German raiders.

Made in Canada

Will somebody please enlighten the people of B.C. what the matter is with certain elements in this fine capital city—I mean the element that stubbornly persists in saying "No No No" to all the genuine Canadian plans and ideas for our fair city that not only would beautify her, but give her progress as a tourist Mecca in her ideal setting.

I have been in Canada 35 years, and I am Danish, but I say leave Denmark where it is and let us get on with the business of building Canada the Canadian way. In all the world there is no finer or richer heritage. So let us all be proud of it, indeed, and think and act Canadian in every way, and by that I mean that all people not born here should do just that, and leave the old countries where they are.

It is a privilege to be accepted and to make our living here in this great land so it seems only natural to show our appreciation by giving our trained skills to further enhance this land, each of us imparting something new to add ease, comfort and beauty to the Canadian way of life.

By absorbing Canada, Canada absorbs us to the good of both. All new Canadians not fully Canadian-minded should have no right to vote on a Canadian project, plan or idea of permanence such as a centennial project.

What is more Canadian than old Fort Victoria with its Bastion. I propose it should be built in as near its original aspects as possible and let us employ all the oldtimers' skill (as only they know) and knowledge as supervisors, thereby imparting to them pride in their lasting memories.

Such a Fort with an old street or two with a few buildings from its immediate vicinity made into shops wherein goods are made and sold entirely B.C. made by B.C. citizens will be like a Greenwich Village within a city and the talk of hundreds of thousands very shortly, bringing more interest and money to B.C.

So let us get on with it and show we can make up our minds.

Cats and Birds

A letter signed, "K. Barrett," in your issue of April 22, champions the natural cruelty of cats. The writer states, "the poor, terrified little creatures haven't the least idea what it is all about"—(harmless trapping reference.)

Of course cats have no idea what it is all about. That is why they are a problem. They cannot be trained to come or go when told to do so.

The cat is sheltered and fed, then turned out to the freedom of its natural and predacious instincts. With the full knowledge and consent of its owners the cat goes where it will, destroys bird-life and otherwise pains and disturbs the peace of mind and sanctuary in other people's gardens.

The other day a home-owner told me her cat had killed a certain bird. She was very distressed for she loves birds. The bird was a female Audubon Warbler, one of the most useful and beautiful of our small migrants. They live almost entirely on harmful insects. They come, these birds, when we are spending money on insecticides. Foolish, isn't it?

Surely our capacity to understand can take us beyond the role of the cat in society. Minds need opening to the right of home-owners to protect our bird population against its great enemy, the cat which stalks unwanted in our gardens.

'Oliver Twist' Co.

It may, soon become compulsory to change the label of Mr. W. A. C. Bennett's so-called Social Credit league to that of the Oliver Twist Co., judging by the avidity for power shown by both himself and the league now making a synthetic tour of Canada, combining politics with finance.

It is a fascinating—as well as a chameleonic—role Mr. Bennett is staging during his political barn-storming through Canada. Through the political frenzy that is breezing on the air one can hear the words of King Lear—"Get thee glass eyes; and, like a scurvy politician, seem to see the things thou dost not."

Views on Wheat Board

At a recent public meeting a speaker appearing on behalf of the Liberal Party stated that he favored the abolition of the Wheat Board, that all grain marketing should be returned to private dealers, and that the time was due for the Government to cease subsidizing prairie farmers.

It would be very interesting to know to what extent the Liberal Party and individual members agree with their fellow-members views as above here in B.C.

And, while we are on the subject, what are the views of the other parties?

FROM ROME

By WALTER LIPPMANN

What They Are Thinking

ONE of the things that has impressed me in Great Britain and again in Italy is that in foreign affairs there are no clear and sharp issues. There was, of course, a deep division of feeling over the Suez affair. But now that the intervention has failed and has been liquidated, there does not seem to be anywhere a definite difference of view as to what the Western world or the United States should do next. My impression is that here in Italy there is a feeling of solidarity with the British and the French but that this feeling is checked by a strong practical sense that it is in the national interest of Italy to go along with the United States.

In moving about and talking to a variety of people from the countries of Western Europe I have found a remarkable amount of agreement, almost a consensus, about the Soviet Union, about the Middle East, and about the United States.

I have seen no one who thinks the Soviet Union is planning and is preparing for a general war. For that reason the resounding declarations of the so-called Eisenhower Doctrine are received with puzzled incredulity.

I have seen no one who thinks that the Soviet Union is at present willing or able to negotiate a general German or European settlement. The commonly accepted view is that the Soviet Union cannot afford to withdraw the Red Army from Eastern Germany and from Poland. This would mean the fall of the East German Communist Regime, and along with that a turning of Poland and Hungary against Russia.

Some whom I have seen think that there is nothing for the West to do but to back up Dr. Adenauer and accept the fact that Europe is partitioned. Others, who are, I believe, more far-sighted, think the West should keep on trying to negotiate, offering the Soviet Union terms which Moscow, were it less frightened and suspicious, could find reasonable.

There is a general view, I found, that in the rivalry for the so-called uncommitted nations of Africa, the Middle East and South Asia, the Soviet has an easier hand to play than the United States. There is a feeling that the Soviet Union has won the game in Nasser's Egypt. Certainly it would be a pleasant surprise in Europe if Eisenhower and Dulles are able to hold their own in the game.

Although I have not encountered it myself, there is obviously wide anti-American feeling.

Manners Unpopular

There is, on the one hand, a big distaste for the manners and the bearing of Americans travelling abroad or talking to the outer world. The comforts and the conveniences of the American way of life are popular. But the talk that goes with them, be it from tourists, itinerant Congressmen, or other officials is definitely unpopular.

There is in the anti-American feeling a general disillusionment with President Eisenhower himself. There is an extraordinary lack of confidence in Secretary Dulles. There is a general underlying anxiety that the fate of Europe should so much depend upon them.

The feeling seems to be unanimous as one learns not only in private conversation but also in blunt correspondence in the responsible European press, that the President is a tired man living in a kind of semi-retirement.

All this tends to strengthen the feeling in favor of projects like the common market, of European solidarity. I have no doubt that the brilliant reception of Queen Elizabeth in Paris reflects in some considerable measure this new feeling of European solidarity.

Yet I am unable to judge, nor is anyone I have talked with, whether the general feeling of European solidarity is strong enough to overcome the national feelings and the vested interests which keep Europe divided.

It will be years before we know. But in the meantime the common effort to work at these common projects is, in itself a healthy manifestation of European solidarity.

By Their Fruits...

AS the swim coach for Ocean Falls admitted, it rains so much up there you expect babies to be born with webbed feet. Naturally they take to the water like ducks. Almost as naturally they become top-notch swimmers.

The youngsters from the up-coast town proved part of that on Easter Monday when they almost won a four-city gala here. Victoria Y was first with some good breaks and 145 points. Ocean Falls finished second with 114, and Vancouver and New Westminster Ys were a fair distance back.

Per capita, I guess Ocean Falls (population something over 3,000) is the best swimming centre in British Columbia, probably the best in Canada. Certainly, if you check over the list of national aquatic stars in recent years, you'll be amazed how many came from that B.C. settlement.

Any town that can produce youngsters with the ability in competitive swimming shown by Ocean Falls should be proud. And the youngsters are very young. They have lots of races in front of them.

But the Ocean Falls team, here for a few days before the meet and now in Vancouver for another, showed quite a lot more than swimming ability. It showed a standard of behavior that would please parents back home.

RESPONSIVE

They were just as noisy, cheering their club mates on, as any bunch of young people in the peculiarly noise-inspiring environment of a swim pool and stripped to essentials.

These were no shrinking violets stifled by a small-town complex. Only you could tell the Ocean Falls kids what to do and stand better than a 50-50 chance of having them do it. They were biddable, which is something in this day when so many juveniles argue apparently for the sake of arguing.

I'm a little too disillusioned to suggest that Ocean Falls swimmers prove the virtue of sport as an infallible character builder and unrivalling means of teaching kids to behave. Given the right kind of leadership, though, it can help.

Looking back through the haze of years, I'm not so sure I planted roses of happy remembrance wherever I went as a team member. Nor am I certain that fathers and mothers of the Ocean Falls swimmers, much as they may cherish their offspring, will take for granted the reports of their children's good behavior here.

Kids, on occasions, have a way of creating favorable impressions on trips more assiduously than they do under their own roofs. They have a disinclination to accept the old Yorkshire saying that if you have only a limited number of good manners you should keep them for home use. That disinclination must be normal. Otherwise the saying would have been unnecessary.

Still a group of well-behaved young people is about as good an ambassadorial corps as any town or country can produce. They're talked about. People notice them. Strangers give top marks to the families and communities which turn out such examples.

I think of that when some of our teams go traveling. They aren't just performers in a game, outstanding as they may be in a particular sport. They're envoys for their home towns and country, and how they behave can be as impressive as how greatly they star.

At one time I met a world-famous cricketer, later knighted because of his distinction in that game. It's taken a lot of other Australians to convince me what good people they have "down under."

ENVOYS

I like to think that a great number of Canadian athletes contribute to the favor Canadians enjoy in so many parts of the world. They're no angels, but a lot of them, by quiet and mannerly conduct, have enhanced the national reputation.

It seems to me that characteristic ought to be a factor in choosing teams for outside appearances. The ideal, of course, is to have a squad that can win, can show sportsmanship and can meet and favorably impress the public after the event.

The youngsters from Ocean Falls did that here—and did it among other youngsters from Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster clubs who swam well, proved their sportsmanship and behaved themselves.

Such demonstrations leave a pleasant memory—a lot more pleasant to me than watching one of the world's great baseball players turn in a first-class exhibition and wind it up by spitting at the spectators.

Says 'No' to Nations

NEW YORK—Part of the job of being a banker is to be able to adopt the proper attitude toward people who come in search of loans, and as a good many of us have reason to know, this is a side of their craft that most bankers have mastered pretty well.

Eugene R. Black is a banker who receives applications not from individuals, but from nations. This is a more formidable side of banking than dealing with members of the general public, and so it is appropriate that Mr. Black is a formidable man.

He is the president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, a specialized agency of the United Nations, with headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Black came to United Nations Headquarters to address the Economic and Social Council, and present the annual report of the International Bank. He also consented to be interviewed, and that is where he showed himself to be formidable, for to say that Mr. Black is a brisk and businesslike man would be putting it mildly.

He is a man to whom time is money, and throughout our brief chat with him he kept looking at his watch, and finally he strode rapidly from the room, announcing that he had to keep a date about a $100,000,000 bond issue. He did, too, and the issue was announced that afternoon, bringing to well over one billion dollars the amount now outstanding in international bank bonds in the top currencies of the world—U.S. dollars, Canadian dollars, pounds sterling, Netherlands guilders and Swiss francs. In 10 years, the bank has made 166 loans totalling over three billion dollars.

Mr. Black looks like just the man to handle figures like that. Tall, with grey hair thin on top, searching blue eyes, a ready smile that lights his face and then ends abruptly, and a crushing handshake, he is the sort of man, you would want to have handling your money, if you had any.

"Who," we asked him, "decides whether an application to the International Bank for a loan will be granted?"

The reply: "I do."

"Just you?"

"Well, every application winds up on my desk. I am the one to say whether or not it goes on to the board."

If Mr. Black passes it on to the board, that has always meant eventual approval.

In fact, few applications reach his desk unless they are certain to be passed on, for in the process of getting to him they go through the hands of the best experts the International Bank can muster, and it is their job to weigh the pros and cons, and the desirability of the project that the money is wanted for.

We asked: "Do you have any trouble with nations not paying their debts?"

Mr. Black replied that there had been no such problem, as yet. "If there was, what would you do about it? Have you any machinery for collection?" He stroked his chin and smiled. "A nation would have to be in bad shape before they would default to the bank, because of the international angles. I wouldn't say we have machinery for such a situation, but plenty would happen, all right."

Biggest Fibreglass Lifeboat on Oronsay

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of the largest fibreglass lifeboats ever built, designed to carry 144 persons, will be on the Orient liner Oronsay when she arrives here on her next voyage.

Fibre glass lifeboats were only recently authorized here by the steamship inspection service and two were installed on a tug.

But they were midgets compared with the Oronsay's big boat, powered by an air-cooled engine, that will give warm air to survivors in cold or exposed conditions. It can be used as a ship-to-shore launch as well in emergencies.

The Oronsay's lifeboat is being tested as a prototype of 20 to be carried by the line's new 40,000-ton Oriana when she makes her maiden voyage in 1960.

Advantages of fibreglass are easy cleaning and maintenance, lightness and absence of corrosion. All containers for water, provisions and fuel are also of fibreglass.

Many Inspirations From Garden Tours

Once a year the opportunity is presented local and visiting gardeners to enjoy a group of Victoria private gardens.

Next week, May 1 to May 4 inclusive, the Victoria Horticultural Society has arranged tours of over 15 gardens chosen for variety of locale and plant material.

These tours have added advantages over flower shows inasmuch as flowering trees and shrubs, conifers and native oaks may be seen as background plantings to the lovely flowers of spring.

The use of natural rock outcroppings, which formerly were the dismay of many a backyard gardener, is illustrated in several of these gardens. An endless number of plants may be grown wherever small pockets of soil can be provided.

Collections of rhododendrons and azaleas will amaze the beginner in gardening by their wide range of size, color, and habit.

Flowering trees and shrubs to be seen will include many species of broom, their differences in color and habit enabling them to be adapted to varying positions in the garden.

On these organized tours, guides are provided who are qualified to give information on the plants. The tours travel by chartered buses at a nominal charge of 75 cents per tour of four to six gardens. Admittance to all gardens for the four days is $1.50, or one day for 50 cents. You, and your spring visitors from other parts of Canada, will be thrilled by any or all of these beautiful gardens. We know that each year many inspirations are born of these visits.

UBC to Exchange Staff, Students With Japan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Arrangements for an exchange of staff and students with Japanese universities has been made by the president of the University of British Columbia.

Dr. N. A. M. McKenzie recently returned from a three-week Japanese tour during which he gave several addresses on the theme:

"The place of universities in promoting an international society."

"The exchange in the first place will be nearly all one way. It will be comparatively easy absorbing Japanese students here for English is a second language to them."

"On the other hand, our students will have to first master Japanese before entering into the scheme."

At present 12 native Japanese and 120 Canadian-born Japanese attend UBC.

Dr. McKenzie says he hopes that the new scheme will swell these numbers sufficiently to justify establishment of a department of Asian studies.

RAF Hero Here to Spread Word On Moral Re-Armament Ideology

Moral Re-Armament came to Victoria today in the person of a lanky wartime RAF hero and eight other disciples.

During a 48-hour visit here, the group intends to meet with as many government, labor and business leaders as possible to spread the word of MRA.

Spokesman is Wing Cmdr. Edward Howell of St. Andrews, Scotland, who describes MRA as a "philosophy of life."

It is neither exclusively political nor religious but an all-embracing "ideology" that can provide the only effective alternative to Communism, adherents say.

Moral Re-Armament has no formal membership, but claims hundreds of thousands of believers around the world.

ASIAN ASSEMBLY

Wing Cmdr. Howell and some members of the group have just returned from an Asian Assembly in the Philippines attended by 200 delegates from 27 countries.

Now they are trying to drum up interest in a world conference to open May 30 at Mackinac Island, Mich. At least 1,000 delegates are expected.

Wing Cmdr. Howell said he hoped to see as many government leaders as possible, including Premier Bennett if he is available.

A full-time member of the MRA "team" since 1946, Wing Cmdr. Howell commanded a fighter squadron in the Battle of Crete.

PRISONER

Severely wounded in the German paratrooper raid in May, 1941, he was taken prisoner. After months in prison hospitals in Greece he staged a daring escape.

For his exploits he was awarded the DFC and OBE.

In his book, "Escape to Live," Wing Cmdr. Howell relates his wartime adventures and tells how he arrived at a new faith which led him to Moral Re-Armament.

School Treatment

'A Betrayal'

TORONTO (CP)—Michael Langham, director of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, said here that Shakespearean drama as it is taught in school "is a betrayal of Shakespeare and of the young."

He told the Ontario Education Association convention Shakespeare's plays were written to be acted, not read. Because of school methods of studying the plays, he said, "most students develop disinterest or even distaste for his works."

Topaz Garbage Landfill Again Proposed by City

A sanitary landfill garbage disposal system in the Topaz Heights area has been proposed again by city council.

It is the third time the proposal has been made since 1954. Both previous times, reaction by residents was so heated, the matter was dropped.

Adoption of the scheme would delay expenditure of $226,952 for a new garbage wharf for as long as 10 years—and perhaps indefinitely.

Council Thursday gave authority to public works committee to canvass residents and hold public meetings. Aim is to convince them that a sanitary landfill would beautify the area and would create no nuisance.

"I don't think there is the slightest hope of getting it through," city engineer James C. Garnett told council. He said it would be "wonderful" if it were possible. Outlay for equipment for a fill would be about $30,000.

PARTLY GRAVEL PIT

Area considered adjoins Topaz Park and is now partially a gravel pit. About 15 per cent of the area is owned by the city and the balance by Baker Brick and Tile. It is four acres in area.

Works committee asked council to approve reconstruction of the present city garbage wharf, which Ald. J. Donlad Smith said was "more essential than a new fire hall in the opinion of the committee."

Ald. Arthur Dowell said he couldn't see why the cost should come from this year's budget when all council needed was "courage" to launch the land fill scheme.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said he thought most of the people who opposed the scheme before had now left the Topaz area. He suggested a public meeting. "To see whether they are converted or not... do they want to live with that terrible pit beside them, or do they want to see the area developed?"

DONE ELSEWHERE

Ald. Austin Curtis pointed out land fill is going on "all over the world."

"Even while it is going on the appearance would be better than at present," he thought. He said the system calls for nightly burial of garbage and is free of rodents.

"If this council has the

3 Projects Here Worth $101,000

Three construction projects of a total value of $101,000 were approved at city hall this week.

Peter Brown, 1010 Blanshard, will build a $32,000 eight-suite apartment block at 616 Pendray. Architects are Whittaker and Wagg and contractor, H. R. Brown.

CHURCH SUITE

First United Church will add a social suite to Fellowship Hall at 836 Balmoral. The two-story building will be of concrete construction. Architect is Charles E. Craig and Farmer Construction is contractor.

A $32,000 addition will be built at 733 Discovery Street to an apartment block owned by Mrs. J. Szpodonski.

Alberta Deputy Ministers Get Hike to $10,360

EDMONTON (CP)—A general increase in salaries for Alberta deputy ministers has been authorized through an order-in-council passed by the provincial cabinet this week.

All now receive $10,360 a year with the exception of deputy attorney-general Harry J. Wilson, who receives $12,880. His salary includes $2,500 in fees for court work.

The new salary figure for other deputy ministers incorporates a $360 cost-of-living bonus, which has been discontinued as such. The increases were made effective April 1.

Prior to introduction of the schedule, salaries ranged from $8,000 to $10,000.

$900-$2,200 Boost Teachers' Objective

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Teachers' Federation Thursday night approved a salary schedule which, if accepted, would bring them pay increases of from $900 to $2,200 a year.

A move to ask for $10,000 optimum salary for a secondary teacher with six years' experience was defeated.

The salary schedule was drawn up by a committee which earlier recommended that the present wage scale be continued in the coming year. The committee said salaries should be maintained firmly but no increase should be sought.

NOT BINDING

The minimum scales are not binding on school boards but are used by local groups as a basis for negotiation.

Even on the 1956 scale, the delegates were told, 56 school boards paid less than the $2,400 starting minimum for elementary teachers. Seven boards paid the minimum and 20 other boards paid more.

Prairies Floods Recede; Damage Reports Heavy

TISDALE, Sask. (CP)—Receding flood waters from rampaging streams and rivers today left behind widespread damage to farms, buildings and communications in north-central Saskatchewan.

Fed by a two-day rain and quickening spring runoff, the usually placid rivers jumped their banks, chased people out of homes, knifed through rail and highway grades and knocked out phone and power lines in the Melfort-Tisdale-Nipawin area about 100 miles east of Prince Albert.

The floods took a heavy toll near the tiny hamlet of Carlea, 25 miles southeast of Nipawin and 100 miles east of Prince Albert, where 40 persons were evacuated from the Two Rivers Bible Institute at the forks of the Carrot and Leather Rivers.

Only one building at the institute remains suitable for habitation, several have floated away and others are surrounded by water.

Meanwhile, the general picture in the Carrot River area improved as lower temperatures, barely above freezing, slowed the runoff.

The discrepancy was greater in secondary schools. Sixty-eight boards paid less than the 1956 minimum of $3,300; three boards met that figure; and six school districts exceeded it.

The 1956 scale calls for an elementary starting teacher to get $2,400 while the new scale has a $3,600 objective.

Secondary starting teachers get $3,300 under the 1956 scale. They would get $4,200 according to the new schedule.

BIGGEST HIKE

The largest boost of $2,200 a year would be won by a secondary teacher of six years' experience if school boards yielded to the professional theme. This would bring the teacher's pay to $9,000 from $6,800 a year.

A Trill teacher told the convention that present Bible readings in schools are "not only incomprehensible to primary students, but incomprehensible all the way through."

The teacher, Don Spragge, advocated abolition of Bible reading; as now set out in the course of study.

"I have found very little appreciation or understanding of Bible readings from Grades 1 to 9," he said. Despite expressions of dissatisfaction from a number of delegates, the convention tabled two resolutions which would have asked the department of education to change the present rule that Bible selections be read daily to all students but without any interpretation.

A resolution from a West Kootenay group asked the department of education to place copies of the revised standard version in schools in preference to the St. James version "which contains much obsolete and archaic English."

SIT QUIETLY

A Burnaby primary teacher said the main value of Bible readings in Grade 1 is "just to teach children to sit quietly and listen."

Mollie Cottingham, newly-elected BCTF president, said if the teachers feel strongly enough to recommend that the executive investigate the whole question of Bible readings, the executive will do so.

"Some teachers think these readings are a pack of nonsense so they do them cursorily, and the pupils don't get much from it," she said.

But she added: "I don't go along with Don Spragge that these readings are incomprehensible in upper grades."

MOSCOW 'PROGRESSIVES' END UP AS TORIES

OTTAWA (CP)—Moscow mixed up its progressives today and a call intended for Labor-Progressive Leader Tim Buck's headquarters wound up at Progressive Conservative chieftain John Diefenbaker's instead.

Conservative campaign manager Al Grosart was told when he reached party headquarters today that there was a telephone call from Moscow awaiting him.

"I said it was too early in the morning for jokes but the switchboard operator insisted she wasn't kidding."

She informed the long-distance operator that Mr. Grosart had arrived, the call was completed "and some deep guttural Russian voice said that he was on the editorial board of a publication that sounded like 'Moscow Builders' Banner,' a building-trades publication, and for a forthcoming edition wanted a message from the Canadian proletariat."

"When he said proletariat I realized immediately that the call was misdirected and said, 'just a minute, you've got the wrong number.'"

Mr. Grosart said he got the switchboard operator to help Moscow get its call redirected.

Boy, 12, Burned In Freak Accident

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—The long arm of coincidence sent a 12-year-old boy to hospital Thursday with critical burns. Police said Kenneth Erickson, 12, was playing with matches underneath a bridge culvert just as a coal truck driver halted his vehicle overhead because of a gasoline leak. The gasoline caught fire and exploded, fatally wounding by a policeman.

Runs Amok, Kills Three

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP)—Three persons were killed and six wounded Wednesday night after a man grabbed a policeman's gun and ran wildly through crowded downtown streets spraying this Mexican town with bullets. The gunman, Eusebio Coronado, was fatally wounded by a policeman.

Pilot of X-15 Looks More Like Banker Than Air Ace

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A soft-spoken pilot who looks more like a banker may be the first human to fly at 4,000 miles an hour.

SCOTT CROSSFIELD
... never asked the wife if he could fly 4,000 mph.

There is nothing fantastic about the appearance or demeanor of the 35-year-old Scott Crossfield, named Thursday to pilot the rocket-powered North American X-15 on its maiden flight next year.

Almost anybody would take this conservatively dressed family man for a quietly confident businessman or an aeronautical engineer—which he is.

RECORD HEIGHT AND SPEED

He is the man who first flew twice the speed of sound—1,327 mph in the Douglas Skyrocket in November 1953—and he is the man who may pilot the X-15 higher and faster than any other manned aircraft.

The X-15 may achieve such unbelievable marks as 4,000 mph and 200,000 feet altitude.

"This is my business, my life work," Crossfield said when asked how he felt about approaching this project.

"The X-15 is a flying research laboratory," he said. "I am living with this aircraft, from the concept through the drawing boards, the mock-up, the actual construction, the testing and, finally, the flight."

DETAILS SECRET

Nearly all details of the plane are secret. Presumably it will be dropped from a mother plane over Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., as were the X-1 and X-2 research speedsters which ran the records up to better than 2,200 mph and 30,000 feet altitude.

"We are not taking any fliers on anything," Crossfield said.

"The estimate of pilot survival is 100 per cent or, realistically, 92 per cent by the most careful analysis of the most dire possible mishap."

Crossfield, who lives with his wife and four children in Los Angeles, has been flying virtually since he was a boy, including naval aviation in the Second World War and five years as test pilot.

Asked what his wife thought about the X-15 project, Crossfield laughed and said: "I never asked her."

CLOSED DOOR POLICY TRIPS 'HABEAS CORPUS' POLICEMAN

WINNIPEG (CP)—A city policeman walking his beat early today tested the front doors of a Portage Avenue clothing store and found them open.

He went in, closed the door, looked around and then phoned the police station. A radio call to a nearby patrol car sent it speeding to the store.

Burglars?

No. The call was to rescue the policeman. When he closed the front door he locked himself in.

CN Workers Ask Gov't To Fire Their Boss

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal discriminatory policies of the pro-local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (CLC) has sent a letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent requesting the dismissal of Donald Gordon as president of the Canadian National Railways.

The local represents 1,100 clerks in the CNR's revenue accounting department.

The letter read: "Because of the anti-union and non-union accounting clerks."

Council Reverses Zoning Decisions

City council reversed its judgment of two zoning questions Thursday following a spirited public hearing.

Rejected at final reading were by-laws which would have rezoned lots near the southeast corner of Cook and Yates for use as a used car lot, and a city block in residential Fairfield from single family to multiple family use.

It was the largest turnout of citizens at any council meeting this year—prompted in part by a new rule that notice of zoning hearings be mailed to all residents who might be affected.

Arguments presented by residents swung the course of council action. Following the hearing, they sat through a four-hour meeting to observe council action on their petitions. They heckled aldermen who opposed them.

ent location at Cook and Yates. Ald. Smith, Ald. Austin I. Curtis and Ald. Geoffrey Edgell supported the re-zoning, despite earlier recommendations by Town Planning Commission that business should expand northward, not to the east.

Mrs. A. H. Wilson (no relation to Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson) summed up the opposition.

VALUES DROPPED

Encroachments by commercial enterprises were depreciating residential and apartment resale values, turning Yates Street into a "used car alley" and reducing city revenues, she said.

For instance, a 20-suite apartment on the site required by the city firm would provide $3,000 to $6,000 a year in taxes. Used car lots might provide $700, including business licence.

Five residents and three letters opposed re-opening of the block bounded by Richardson, St. Charles, Richmond and Chandler to multiple family dwellings.

The area is now reserved for single family, but prior to last August several two-family dwellings had been allowed. Any more duplexes, said the residents, would attract more transient renters and cause property depreciation.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

The search for ways to ensure good hunting and fishing in future years has resulted in scientific observation of most of our major fish and game species.

Even sportsmen have been given the microscopic treatment on occasion and one of the experiments with hunters—Operation CHEC in Washington last fall—has produced some interesting findings.

Reports on CHEC, meaning Co-operative Hunter Experimental Control were released a few days ago and indicate that deer hunters and logging operators can work together in harmony with beneficial results on both sides.

Objective of the operation, financed and sponsored by the Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., was simple: The company wanted to find ways to lose to timber outfits through vandalism, improve access, raise the kill of deer on company-owned land and learn more about the habits of hunters.

Hunter behavior was above reproach during the 21-day buck season in the CHEC area, which covered 70 square miles and included 65 miles of private roads. No hunters got lost, none were charged with breaking the law and there was no vandalism reported. There were no fires, no damage to roads, no accidents and, probably most important, there were no hassles between hunters and loggers.

Cost to the company, which provided free permits, maps, booklets, advice and coffee at the entrance gate, was $1,100, about three times the usual cost during a like period but far less than the $6,000 damage done on a similar tree farm the previous season.

Away from the CHEC section, hunters carried off power saws, gasoline and tools and smashed several access gates. One hunter was wounded by a bullet glancing off a padlock his partner was trying to blast off a gate.

Reports on the operation also included the information that 30-06 rifles are used by 35 per cent of deer hunters, 31 per cent use 30-30s with the 300 Savage third choice. Outdoor columns in newspapers are scanned by 78 per cent of the hunters and 66 per cent read the larger outdoor magazines.

The report concluded with: "Further study is imperative." And the company plans to conduct similar co-operative programs in other sections of Washington this fall.

Any program similar to CHEC, which could lead to opening up more forest lands to sportsmen should be watched closely. The time is not too far distant when it will be almost imperative that hunting be allowed in all young forests.

It takes 70 to 100 years to grow a crop of marketable timber. In that time 70 to 100 crops of game can be taken from the same land without damaging the timber.

Hunting has become too big a business and too important a part of our recreational life to let huge forest timber areas be closed to hunters. Sportsmen must guard against losing the right to enter our forests. But they must do their part, too.

Cold weather is still making life miserable for trout fishermen. In most Vancouver Island waters, temperatures just haven't climbed to the point where trout are active feeders.

Although trout are being taken in most of the better lakes and streams, periods of fast action are few and far between. The trout are there and some can be caught, but even the experts are finding it tough to consistently bring in good catches.

Some of the best catches in the past week have been made up of sea-run cutthroats, which are around the mouths of most larger streams. Try them on small spoons, silver-bodied flies and the old reliable spinner and worm.

Most of the rivers, including the Cowichan and Nanaimo are now producing only an occasional steelhead. A fresh run of steelies has been reported at the Chemainus River and the San Juan is holding a lot of fish, but they weren't in a biting mood last weekend.

Salt chuck fishing for bluebacks and small spring salmon is holding up fairly well and a few good-sized springs have added interest this week.

A. C. Anderson included a 14½-pounder in his catch of three springs and three bluebacks taken on herring strip at the Goldstream end of Saanich Inlet Wednesday and Larry Summers pulled out a 13-pounder in front of the Stone House Monday.

Two good springs, topped by a 26-pounder were boated at Ten Mile Point last weekend and some fair-sized springs have been taken along with good blueback catches in the Crofton-Chemainus area.

Lone Flyer Comfort: 'Can't Play Worse'

TORONTO (CP) — Spokane Flyers play a "must" game in their Allan Cup final with Whitby Dunlops tonight, but even manager Roy McBride isn't sure about how they'll perform.

"They weren't too impressive," he said after Flyers' workout on the eve of the second game in the best-of-seven series. Dunlops lead the series 1-0 after a 5-2 victory Tuesday and another win could give them a big edge.

However, though McBride wasn't sure "that we've recovered our edge" after the 14-day layoff that preceded the opening game, he said "we expect to do better and we'll be expending every effort to square the series tonight."

"We can't play any worse," he said wryly. "But we've got to do more forcing and more hitting. We've been a good fore-checking club in the past but the boys were sadly lacking in the first game."

NOT COMPLACENT McBride's pessimistic summary of his team's chances failed to lull Bus Gagnon, playing coach of the Dunlops, into complacency.

"They've got the speed, that was evident in Tuesday's game," Gagnon said, following his practice of always giving the other side the benefit of every doubt.

He has the experience of two previous series to show the team that wins the first game easily doesn't always march right through to the championship.

When his team met Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for the Ontario Hockey Association crown they went down 6-2 in the first game, then won the next three but just squeaked past Dutchmen 4-3 on the third.

Playing North Bay Trappers for the Eastern Canada title, they lost the next two, but again eked out a 4-3 series win.

Junior Cricketers Tackle Shawnigan

Victoria Juniors, the Victoria and District Cricket Association's newest club, makes its second start of the season Sunday, meeting Shawnigan Lake School at Beacon Hill Park.

The club has been formed to encourage younger athletes to play the game and to prepare a Victoria side for competition in the junior inter-provincial matches scheduled at Winnipeg this year.

Players under the age of 21 wishing to join the club may obtain further information by calling Jack Shanks at 3-5420. Club's schedule until July 1 follows:

Sunday—Juniors vs. Shawnigan Lake School, Beacon Hill Park.

May 18—Juniors vs. Oak Bay, Windsor Park.

May 25—Juniors vs. Vancouver, Beacon Hill Park.

June 1—Juniors vs. Cowichan, Duncan.

June 23—Juniors vs. Five C's, Beacon Hill Park.

July 1—Juniors vs. Albion, Beacon Hill Park.

YOUNG RIFLE HANDLERS OPEN TRAINING SESSION

Another season of rifle training for young sportsmen will open at the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association grounds at Goldstream Sunday afternoon.

Club officials will hold the official opening of the training program for junior members and prospective junior members at the club's small-bore range at 2. For seniors, the trap range will be open for practice shooting throughout the day.

Also on tap at Goldstream Sunday are the first practice trials of the season of the Victoria Gun Dog Club.

No Clues

On a rainy day two years ago, a pretty young housewife left a beauty shop and headed for her car. Three days later her nude body was found in a pasture. There were no clues.

The island chamber has prepared a resolution asking the federal government to defer any move by CHEK-TV to put a transmitter on the 2,306-foot mountain.

"The question is, will interference on Greater Victoria television sets be eliminated at the cost of reception of Channel 5 on television sets in the Gulf Islands, Saanich Peninsula, Crofton and Duncan," the resolution states.

Farmer Construction Submits $599,934 Tender for B.C. Power Plant Project

Farmer Construction (Vancouver Island) Ltd. submitted low bid of $599,934 Thursday for construction of a powerhouse at the B.C. Power Commission's Ash River development on the island.

Highest of the six bids submitted was $1,119,350 by Vancouver Pile-driving and Contracting Co. Ltd.

Others were John Laing and Sons (Canada) Ltd., $730,005; Burns and Dutton Concrete and Construction Co. Ltd., $938,875; A & B Construction Co. Ltd., $629,838, and Emily Anderson Construction Co. Ltd., $847,082.

Total cost of the Ash River project is estimated at $12,000,000.

Nanaimo Log Sports Cancelled

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo Empire Day celebration committee has been told there will be no logging sports this year because the facilities of Caledonia Grounds are not adequate.

Local 1-80 of International Woodworkers of America told chairman Frank Ney of the Empire Day committee the grounds are not suitable for an enlarged program of logging sports.

Mr. Ney said the event will be resumed when better facilities are available with the goal of bringing world championships to Nanaimo.

The Empire Day committee will ask the Shriners to put on a pageant to replace the loggers' sports.

Plans for the annual soap box derby held in connection with Empire Day celebrations also will have to be changed.

Gordon Blank, organizer of the derby, has been told that Fraser Street hill, an excellent slope, will not be paved in time for the holiday. Second choice likely will be Fitzwilliam Street.

Buttle Lake Road Closed To Public

Timber hauling from Buttle Lake to tidewater will keep the Buttle Lake access road closed to the public this year, the B.C. Power Commission said today.

"Logging trucks with up to 14-foot bunks will be hauling logs for the remainder of the year," a commission spokesman said, "and public travel over the road would be exceedingly dangerous."

The hauling contractors expect to make 10 return trips daily, adding to the current heavy traffic by private logging firms, clearing contractors, power development contractors, the B.C. Forest Service, and power commission vehicles.

Weekend travel also will be prohibited. Maintenance crews are not expected to be able to keep the road in shape for passenger vehicles due to the constant weekday traffic of heavy trucks.

New Hotel Proposed For Duncan Site

DUNCAN — A Victoria group is planning to build a 20-room hotel on the site of the Silver Bridge Inn depending on securing a cocktail lounge licence and city sewerage service.

The project would include extensive additions to the existing Silver Bridge Inn in addition to the new hotel building.

City Business Tax Talks Put Over As Mayor, Ald. Smith Boil Over

Victoria council will meet again next Thursday in hope of settling the question of business tax.

A special meeting was called after a council session erupted Thursday into a shouting duel between Mayor Percy Sparham and Ald. J. Donald Smith.

The mayor reached the boiling point after Ald. Smith made a lengthy harangue, blaming council for wasting time and telling the mayor, "Exert yourself."

Ald. Smith said he had resigned from the special council trade licence committee. "Because I knew council had no idea of putting in business tax."

"Mr. Mayor, it is your duty to stand up and take some action."

He said the business tax formula presented to council by Ald. Hugh Ramsay, Ald. Austin I. Curtis and Ald. E. D. McEwen was "Contrary to the statutes of the council knows in its heart is not going to do it."

IDEAS CHANGED

He recalled a 1951 statement of Mayor (then Alderman) Sparham that there would never be

CROSSED CONTINENT

The first transcontinental railway was completed in the United States in 1869, and in Canada in 1885.

PREMIER PRANGED

Here-a-Gosse, There-a-Gosse And—Wham!

SPANIARDS BAY, Nfld. (CP)—Roland Gosse left the drug store in neighboring Bay Roberts to walk three miles to his home in this east coast community, hoping somebody would recognize him and give him a lift.

First to spot him was Premier Smallwood, rolling along in his big black car.

Mark Gosse, who hadn't had an accident in 38 years, was behind him. He also planned to pick up the first Mr. Gosse but didn't stop in time.

His car hit the premier's, twisting the bumper and smashing the tail lights. He figures damage to his own car may run to $1,000.

Neither was hurt. Roland Gosse kept on walking.

"That was six years ago," replied the mayor. He said his ideas had altered since then.

"Listen Ald. Smith, I won't have you tell me what my duty is."

"You haven't acted..."

"I have, I have appointed a committee... it's not true, I haven't refused to act... you sit down, you've said enough."

The mayor banged his gavel on his desk, but Ald. Smith kept talking.

"You've said that a thousand times already," roared the mayor. "We're all sick of listening to you." Twice more the mayor ordered Ald. Smith to sit down.

Finally, on motion of Ald. Edgewood, the whole matter was laid over to Thursday and a special meeting. Ald. Smith was the only dissenting voter.

BASED ON PROPERTY

The uproar followed a report by Ald. Austin Curtis. It outlined a plan for business tax which could be set up following the next session of the B.C. legislature, either this fall or next spring.

It would be based on real property assessments to which would be applied the current mill rate. Where more than one business was located in the same building, the tax would be shared between tenants and billed to the occupier rather than the owner.

Ald. Smith, who promoted business tax for years, walked off the job as chairman of a council committee in 1956 and since then has been chief critic of attempts by the new committee to establish the tax.

B.C. Delaying Columbia Decision Awaiting Hydro Survey—Williston

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The provincial government won't decide whether the Columbia River is to be developed by public or private interests until a current engineering survey is complete, Lands Minister Ray Williston told a Social Credit rally here Thursday night.

Mr. Williston, member for Fort George, said the government would be in no position to name the agency best suited to develop the Columbia until it is equipped with a complete study of the river's resources. "We want to know what our share of the power would be and how it can be developed in relation to the United States," he said. "That is our responsibility."

As for the federal government, the minister said, as far as he and Premier Bennett are concerned it has not yet come forward with a direct offer of financial aid.

"This is something that should not be political. It be- longed to the people of British Columbia. If the federal government is willing to come in, we'd like to know. We're not a hard-headed, go-it-alone government. We'll go along with any type of co-operation."

Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair announced recently that the federal government would be willing to finance Columbia River development to the same extent as the St. Lawrence Seaway. Premier Bennett objected at the time to the announcement being made at a press conference.

Just leaving the dealer's with my new cab... tenth Pontiac taxi since 1946. And I've had five Pontiacs for my own use as well. Guess you could say I'm really sold on 'em.

Pontiac's got the looks and it's got the style and it's got the comfort that pay off in extra fares. I know this new one really pulls 'em in. Let's ride with this fare to the airport.

It's a real pleasure to get a highway run. Doesn't matter whether it's a 6—like this one—or one of the V8's, these Pontiac engines have got it. I know—I've driven 'em all!

And here we are, bang on time. Always count on a Pontiac to get you where you're going. Say, that Pontiac looks pretty good beside that plane, doesn't it?

Took a short-cut on the way back. What a road! But Pontiac's ride is still tops with me. Like they say... dollar for dollar, you can't beat Pontiac!

Scout Principles Called Essential To Human Survival

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The principles of scouting are essential to the survival of the human race, Bruce Hutchison, editor of The Times, told 76 new Queen's Scouts Thursday night.

"Your generation is unique because in your time the human species has the power to destroy itself and all the labors of 5,000 years," said Mr. Hutchison, who was guest speaker at a dinner in the Crystal Garden tendered by the provincial scout council.

"Unless the world is managed better by your generation—and you boys apply the principles of scouting and international affairs—it will be impossible to avoid that final and closing catastrophe that will destroy the human race."

A former scout himself, Mr. Hutchison hoped the scouts of today would be the leaders of tomorrow and that they would assist in establishing control of atomic power through international co-operation.

"Education in itself is not enough," he continued. "Without character, education can even be dangerous and it is to scouting that we look for the character that is needed in managing our affairs."

He recalled how McKenzie conceived and carried out his daring and seemingly impossible journey through the West; and told of Fraser's intrepid navigation of the Columbia River all the way to Hell's Gate.

"These men gave Canada the opportunity to become a great trans-continental nation."

Mr. Hutchison referred to Victoria as one of the most historic points in North America, pointing out that it took the white man nearly 300 years to settle in B.C. after the first pioneers started westward from Quebec.

In a quick summary of Canadian history, Mr. Hutchison said Canada is essentially a scouting country that has produced two of the greatest scouts of all time—Alexander McKenzie and Simon Fraser.

'GALLANT REPRESENTATIVES OF YOUNG CANADA'

Scouting Finest Youth Movement Ross Tells 76 Queen's Scouts

On a platform banked high with flowers from the grounds of burned-out Government House, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross presented certificates Thursday to 76 graduating Queen's Scouts from 23 districts of British Columbia.

"You have taken your first important step in becoming good citizens of Canada," Mr. Ross told the proud young men who had assembled with more than 100 parents and friends in the Crystal Garden.

The Scouts marched up to the platform one at a time and each bowed solemnly to the lieutenant-governor before receiving his certificate.

They then exchanged the left handshake which has been traditional in the Scout movement since it was founded in 1907 by Lord Baden-Powell (The Chief Scout was taught the left handshake by the Chief of the Akhantis when they surrendered to the British in East Africa.)

Mr. Ross referred to scouting as "the greatest youth movement in the world today" and he told the Scouts:

"You are gallant representatives of the youth of Canada, and you are taking away with you a parchment which shows what you have achieved by study and diligent devotion to duty."

"I would wish to have received you at Government House with all the dignity that goes with it as the emblem of crown and state."

"I can only hope that your successors will come to the new Government House which will, I hope, have the appearance of the old house which was destroyed by fire. We shall endeavor to put into the new building the same spirit of hospitality and graciousness that was created by my predecessors in office."

THE SCOUT PROMISE

"On my honor I promise to do my duty to God and the Queen."

"To help other people at all times and to obey the Scout law."

Addressing himself particularly to parents and friends, Mr. Ross said:

ENCOURAGING "It is encouraging to see so many of you taking an interest in the great Scout movement."

Queen's Scout Bruce Palford of New Westminster then marched smartly onto the platform and standing not too stiffly at attention, told Mr. Ross:

"It is my privilege and pleasure to thank you on behalf of the Queen's Scouts of British Columbia for the wonderful hospitality you have shown us and for presenting these certificates."

Scout Palford called on his fellows to stand and reaffirm the Scout Promise, which they did as with one voice.

The band of HMCS Naden struck up "God Save the Queen" and everyone stood when the lieutenant-governor and his aides of the three services arrived for the ceremony.

Afterwards the band played lively airs while the scouts and their guests moved about the hall, chatting and laughing in friendly groups.

U.K. BOUND Mr. and Mrs. Ross left immediately for the Empress Hotel, their temporary headquarters, to prepare for their four-week visit to Britain and Europe.

They had postponed the trip in order to attend the ceremony.

Present were Times' publisher Stuart Keate, president of the B.C. Scout Association; Provincial Executive Commissioner Ken Jordan; Provincial Field Commissioners Jim Watson and Jim Blaine; Metropolitan Field Commissioner Bob Howard; and Victoria District Executive Commissioner Robert Milks.

'Real Meaning of Citizenship'

By FREEMAN KING

A charge to British Columbia's Queen's Scouts from provincial commissioner T. W. Desmond Kidd, now in England, was read Thursday by honorary provincial scout commissioner T. W. S. Parsons.

"Today is a memorable one for you," the message read. "Throughout the years leading to this day, your scout training has been adventuresome. Your personal achievements are seen in the badges you wear on your uniform."

"The badges leading to your Queen's Scout certificate are service badges, carefully chosen, not to show personal achievement alone, but also to inculcate the real meaning of citizenship.

"One of the marks of a true citizen is the willingness to serve one's fellow men without thought of reward to oneself. In scouting we sum it up in two things: In the daily good turn and in our motto 'Be Prepared' "These hallmarks of scouting are a part of being a Queen Scout. All the badges in the book can never make you Queen's Scout unless you feel deep down inside yourself the willing spirit of service."

The charge concluded: "May God bless you along the trail—Scouts of the Queen."

'HAIRY GIANT THREW TREES AT ME'

Indian Met Sasquatch Face to Face

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A first-hand account from an Indian, who once came face to face with a hairy Sasquatch and barely escaped with his life, was given in an exclusive interview to the Times today.

The dramatic and hair-raising encounter with the hairy giant was related by 84-year-old Jimmy Fraser, grandson of Chief Cheatchlatch, a highly respected resident of the Songhees Reserve.

"His eyes glowed like the noonday sun, and the hair on his body was like moss on the rocks," was the old Indian's description of the giant. "His voice sounded like the roar of surf from a heavy sea."

Jimmy's sincerity is not to be doubted as he enjoys an honorable reputation of being the Indian band's historian.

In addition, he has won nationwide fame as a weather-prophet. He foretells the weather by reading the signs of nature.

His predictions on weather have been so accurate that the Dominion Weather Bureau has been tempted at times to get a "tip of what's coming" from Jimmy.

In telling his story, Jimmy at the same time squelched the claim that Sasquatch exist in the vicinity of Harrison Lake or Agassiz.

The people of Harrison Lake, he said, had confused Sasquatch with two timber giants which roam the hills of the north Fraser Valley.

His advice to the mainlanders is to give up hunting for the giant and to come to Vancouver Island to search for him.

He said, "You will find them now deep in the hills where the mountain flowers grow."

The old Indian's encounter with Sasquatch?

He related that in his youth he was pursuing a young deer up a mountain slope near a lake in East Sooke. On reaching the summit he could find no trace of the deer. He was about to retrace his steps when he heard a deafening roar.

"At first I was like a frozen man," he said. "Even the rocks trembled."

"I looked up and there not far away was a hairy man—maybe 18 feet high—as tall as the mountain tree," he held the deer.

Jimmy recalled that his guardian spirit is the wolf who has endowed him with a pair of fleet legs.

"I turned and ran like the wind," he said. "The giant hurled trees after me. The trees can still be found rotting on the slope of the mountain."

Jimmy said he never went near the mountain again. His description of the mountain where he saw Sasquatch seems to indicate that it is Mount Matheson, near Rocky Point.

The old white-haired Indian took great pains to explain that hairy giants do not go out looking for trouble. They shun people, he said.

"They are only dangerous when they run into people," he said.

Jimmy said since South Vancouver Island has become settled the hairy giants have moved into the interior of the island where no man treads.

Jimmy said he had heard that a Mrs. E. B. Tinkham of Port Angeles, was bringing to Victoria, Sunday a "Shwimbukel," a unique shotgun, for hunting the hairy giant.

The old Indian shook his head: "I hope she can run as fast as a hare," he said.

He said, "You will find them now deep in the hills where the mountain flowers grow."

Police Aid Requested In School Rowdyism

Trustees Have Problem Mayor Scurrah Admits

By PETE LOUDON

School board authorities called in city police today in an effort to stamp out rowdyism at schools here. School trustees Mrs. D. P. W. Maunsell and Mrs. W. W. McGill, accompanied by senior municipal inspector of schools John Gough, met with Victoria Police Commission behind closed doors.

School authorities were mum on results of the meeting but police commissioners stated later, "The matter is under review."

Mayor Percy Scurrah, head of the three-man commission, said the school trustees "have a problem" with regard to rowdyism. "The chief was able to advise them."

UNDER REVIEW

Asked if police action is planned in view of several recent reported disturbances, the commissioners replied, "The police commission has taken cognizance of the situation. It is under review."

It is understood incidents have occurred when former students of various city junior high schools have returned to the grounds and have defied teachers. On one occasion a principal was struck in the face by a juvenile.

A number of juveniles, including ex-students, were later dealt with by juvenile court.

A Victoria teacher said Monday it is not uncommon to have young hoodlums in city classrooms threaten a teacher with assault. He said he estimated 5 to 7 per cent of youngsters attending Central Junior High School and S. J. Willis Junior High in Victoria are "seat warmers" and unfit to stay in school.

Most trouble is generated at the junior high level as after age 16 many of the misfits drop out of school, another authority stated.

School board chairman W. H. Golby, who was unable to attend the meeting with the police commission, today said the most trouble occurs in school grounds.

"It is steadily getting worse," he stated. "Main cause of trouble are the kids who don't belong to the school who are on the grounds at noon and after school. The situation wants regulation and it isn't getting it at the present time."

JUVENILE OFFENCES

Juvenile offences in March climbed to 40, a report by Police Chief John Blackstock showed today. In February there were 31 charged, in January 32 and in December of 1955 14.

Convictions in March included five for breaking and entering, four for theft, five for taking autos without owners' consent.

Pearson To Speak Here May 16

External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson will address a public meeting in Victoria May 16, it was announced today.

Mr. Pearson is one of a number of federal cabinet ministers planning to take part in the election campaign here.

PM HERE MAY 4

Defence Minister Ralph Campney will accompany Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to Victoria May 4.

There has been a change in the prime minister's itinerary. He now will arrive in Nanaimo at noon Saturday, May 4, and address a luncheon meeting of Liberals at the Plaza Hotel. Mr. St. Laurent will drive down Island in the afternoon to address a rally that evening in the Royal Theatre.

After attending church services Sunday morning, he will return to Vancouver by yacht from Sidney.

Saanichton Pathologist Dies in Wales

Distinguished Saanichton plant pathologist Walter Jones, M.M., B.Sc., M.Sc., died Wednesday in Wales during a visit to his birthplace in Glamorgan, Felinbach, Lampeter, Cardiganshire. News of his death was received here by Dr. William Newton, officer in charge of the plant pathology laboratory.

A bachelor, Mr. Jones, 67, had served on the laboratory staff for the past 28 years.

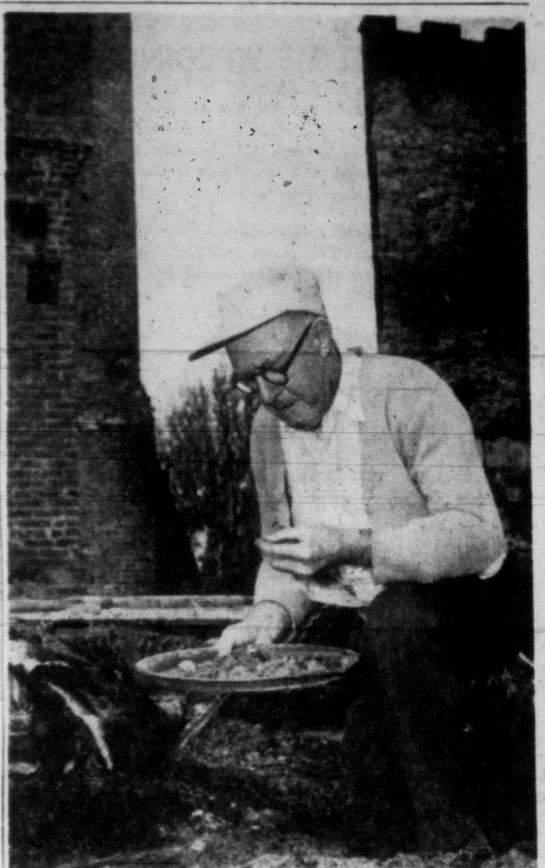

"His investigations of plant diseases have been of inestimable value to the farmers of British Columbia," Dr. Newton said.

"There is hardly a potato grower who has not profited by capitalizing on Walter's intimate knowledge of plant diseases and for years the hop growers depended upon him for guidance in the control of hop diseases."

Mr. Jones has left a permanent record of his research in the form of 25 scientific papers in Canadian and American journals. Reprints of his papers have been sought by scientists in most parts of the world.

He obtained his degrees from the universities of Aberystwyth, Wales, and California.

Military Medal winner for outstanding service in the First World War, he took an active part in veterans' affairs and has held many offices, including the presidency, in the Saanich branch of the Canadian Legion.

ONE-TIME PROSPECTOR Harry Mellson who has been houseman for the lieutenant-governor the last four years, now finds himself prospecting Government House ruins for gold, silver and diamonds.

GOV'T HOUSE RUINS SEARCHED

'Placer Mining' Locates Jewelry

By AB KENT

Destruction of Government House last week opened up a whole new field of prospecting for a former B.C. interior miner.

Thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and valuables have been sifted and panned from the cinders left by the spectacular blaze which virtually levelled the lieutenant-governor's home.

It was left to houseman, Harry Mellson, aided initially by the RCMP, to locate personal valuables of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, mostly Mrs. Ross' jewels.

Harry, spry in his 70's, forked, spaded, strained and fingered his way through heaps of debris, soggy carpets and plaster, crumbly cinders and dusty ashes, but emerged with most fragments of the jewels.

PIONEERED

It was strange, contrast to seeking gold after the turn of the century in B.C.'s north country where Harry helped pioneer the rugged interior by contracting early construction work on the PGE.

He has saved diamonds from rings, clips, pendants and tiaras, although their mountings fared less well.

The low melting point of gold and silver caused items made from these precious metals to run like water in the tremendous heat from the fire. Some was recoverable.

NEVER BE FOUND

A few of the smaller diamonds from jewel clusters likely will never be found. "It's like looking for needles in a haystack," Harry commented. "Sometimes I think it's pretty hopeless, but I've got nothing else to do."

"His Honor wanted me to try and find his watch. It was a very good one—worth $3,000—and it never stopped, he said to me. Not much left of it now, I guess."

The watch had been left at the lieutenant-governor's bed side on the second floor.

Unburned contents of the room crashed with the floor into the mansion's dining room and he in a layered tangle of rubble, conduits, pipes, flooring, studs, joists and ashens of ashes packed around the rest of the ruins like a huge, black and grey layer cake.

He carefully scrapes away the cinders until he bares the bedroom carpet, then scatters each shovelful onto a large pile like a slag heap, ready to be trucked away.

In places the bedroom floor is burned right through, but most of it lies warped and sprung atop dining room debris, the next level to be explored.

Most of the diamonds were found in a general area where they had dropped to the ground floor from an ante room. Mrs. Ross had placed them together ready for her European trip, on which she and Mr. Ross left Thursday night.

Evidence that there will be little hope of finding a recognizable watch is seen in two table radios, or the baked and melted remains of them. These were in the bedrooms, Harry pointed out.

Lumps of fused lead, copper wires and glass plus the burned steel frames are all he could find of the radios.

Elsewhere workmen tear at the piles of rubble, stacking brick in one place and burning heaps of half-burned beams, walls and floors in another place.

The great chimneys will eventually come down, too.

MAYTIME WEDDING

The engagement has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Noye, 785 Middleton Street, of their daughter, Phyllis Vera, to Mr. Paul R. Simpson, son of Mrs. Doreen Simpson and the late Mr. Harold Simpson. The marriage will take place on May 18 at 8 p.m. in Metropolitan United Church, with Rev. F. E. H. James officiating. Mrs. Marjorie Bowden will be matron of honor, and Miss Elaine Fisher, Margaret Tarbet and Penny Watson, bridesmaids. Miss Alanna Bowden will be flower girl. The groom-elect has asked Mr. Garry Gilbert to be best man and Mr. Don Garret, Mr. Lorne Bowden and Mr. Dick Sleep to be ushers. (Photo by Howard Phillips.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Fresh Produce From Local Markets Appearing in Town

By PENNY SAVER

If your shopping list is all made out, let's go, for it's Friday again and time for marketing.

As I took a preview tour of the vegetable and fruit markets this morning, I found a wonderful selection of foods for you. I found green peas, fresh and ready to be shelled, selling at 29 cents a pound. Green beans are another favorite at 39 cents a pound. Next to its look-alike neighbor, cucumber, (little ones at five cents each), I saw zucchini squash. Have you ever noticed how hot zucchini, laden with butter, pepper and salt, tastes much like corn on the cob? It has a tempting flavor that adds interest to a meal. They are 37 cents a pound.

If you're in the mood for a salad, you can buy celery at 29 cents a stalk and green onions are two bunches for 19 cents. Lettuce is 25 cents a head, and radishes are two bunches for a quarter.

Other vegetables, at good prices and excellent quality, include broccoli at two pounds for 43 cents and asparagus, 29 cents a pound bunch. Fresh spinach sells at two pounds for 35 cents, 20 or 22 cents a pound, depending where you buy. Globe artichokes are 29 cents each, and parsnips, 29 cents a package. I found fresh strawberries at 39 cents a box, and locally-grown rhubarb, two pounds for a quarter.

In the packaged foods department, I saw an interesting tin of spread. It is Swiss Alpine ham spread. It is 20 cents.

Shirley Fulton Wed In Seattle Ceremony

Miss Shirley Ann Fulton, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Fulton of Victoria and the late Mr. Fulton, recently became the bride of Mr. Harry C. Green, son of Mrs. H. S. Green, Seattle, and the late Mr. Green in a ceremony in First Presbyterian Church, Seattle.

Given in marriage by her uncle, L. D. Fulton, Yakima, Wash., the lovely bride wore a white ballerina-length dress of fine lace with scalloped neckline and three-quarter sleeves. Her elbow-length veil of white hand-rolled net was complemented with a Juliet cap of lace studded with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations centred with a white orchid.

Mrs. G. Cameron, Victoria, was her only attendant. She wore a gown of pink tulle with net overskirt in ballerina-length. She wore a white feather bandeau in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of white feathered carnations.

The groom's brother, L. Green, was best man.

L. Matthews, Victoria, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception which followed.

For a honeymoon trip to Oregon and California, the bride wore a pale blue angora wool sheath dress with matching duster, white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Green will make their home at 2408 W. 75th Avenue, in Seattle.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Introducing a new daughter-in-law:

I am so uneasy, I am almost frantic. Two weeks ago my son married a girl from a well-to-do family. As he has been assigned to overseas duty, the wedding date was moved up and we were unable to attend on such short notice. We haven't met the bride yet, but they will be here in two weeks for a short visit. As Louise Davis

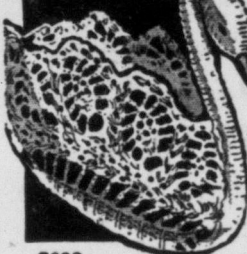

I will have to introduce the bride to our friends and relatives, what should I say? I am nervous because we are considered middle class. We don't intend to put on airs, but I don't want to embarrass my son or his bride.

Louise Davis answers: I am sure that you have no need to be uneasy. Relax and accept your son's bride as one of the family. Just be your own natural self and forget that the bride comes from a well-to-do family. Don't let wealth impress you, for money isn't everything. It doesn't buy breeding or character. I am sure that you will all get along beautifully, especially if you don't try to put on airs or be self-conscious. Don't forget that the bride is on the spot too, for she will be meeting for the first time her husband's mother, father, relatives and friends. Be natural when introducing her. There are several ways of doing it, but I think the best way would be to say the first thing that comes into your mind. You will find that the easiest, rather than memorizing a formula. For instance, you could say, "Jane, I'd like to have you meet one of our dearest friends, Mrs. Jones." Or, "Jane, I want you to meet your new aunt, Aunt Helen Beach, and this is your Uncle John Beach." Of course, your son will be around to help with the introductions. The main thing is to BE YOURSELF. You needn't apologize for anything, even subconsciously!

Canadian Daughters' League, postponement of meeting until next Monday, in Newstead Hall. Supper at 6.15 p.m. Installation of officers at 8 p.m.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Can Lose Up to 10 Pounds On 9-Day Reducing Diet

As those of you who have been reading this column for the past five days know, I am offering you my nine-day reducing diet. Today I want to use my question box to answer some of the questions women ask about this diet.

Q—"How much do women usually lose in nine days if they really stay with the diet?"

A—"From five to 10 pounds, depending on the individual woman. Many factors enter into this; such as metabolism and physical activity."

Q—"Can I start this diet and then repeat it once in a while? I have an awful lot of weight to lose."

A—"Yes. Start with it and then add 300 or 400 calories daily. Once in a while repeat."

Q—"I have only 12 pounds to lose. I will follow the nine-day diet until I have lost those. Then how many calories should I have daily in order not to gain again?"

A—"The best way is to experiment. Your ideal weight depends on so many factors. Add 500 calories daily and watch the scales. If you continue to lose, add another 200. If you gain cut back again."

WOMEN COULD CONTROL IT

Desire for Luxury Goods Backfires And Results in Spiralling Prices

The Canadian Association of Consumers, formed 10 years ago, wages a continuous fight to "inform the consumer that greed or the desire for those things that are not needed" backfires and creates higher and higher prices.

Speaking to the Victoria Branch of the CAC, in the music room of the Victoria Public Library, Thursday evening, Mme. Henri Vautelet, past national CAC president, stressed this point in "The Consumers' Role in Curtailing Inflation" and capped it in a few straightforward words—"Buying is an auction—the more you bid, the more prices go up. The more you pay—or are willing to pay—the higher and higher prices will go."

Mme. Vautelet stressed the point that contrary to belief that inflation "sprang up" since the war, in reality it merely "speeded up."

"We must go back more than 200 years in this country to find the beginning of inflation," she said, "to the days when our resources were very great and when greed was merely a slight warning signal, brushed aside unconsciously, or through ignorance."

If inflation is to be curtailed, Mme. Vautelet said, the public must reduce their demands and industry must be willing to reduce its profits. "Sounds like a dream and yet it could be accomplished."

Women could play a big part in such an undertaking, it was pointed out, "for women do the lion's share of the buying and therefore control the economy of our land."

If inflation is to be curtailed, buy less in the luxury field, to live in a more simple way, inflation could be controlled.

Couple Wed In Ceremony In Oak Bay

Father M. J. McNamara officiated at the ceremony in Our Lady of Lourdes Church, in Oak Bay, recently, when Miss Annette Nerrie, daughter of Mrs. K. A. Nerrie, Londonderry, North Ireland, and the late A. Nerrie, became the bride of John Albert Visser, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Visser, Rapelle, Mont.

The bride was in marriage by her brother-in-law, Ralph Wills. For the ceremony she wore a navy blue corded silk dress with full skirt and fitted bodice. The rounded neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves were trimmed with fluted white nylon. Her hat, of small white velvet flowers, had a tiny veil, and completing her ensemble she chose white gloves, navy shoes and a white prayer book topped with a spray of gardenias and Stephanotis.

Her only attendant was Mrs. T. McCulloch, who wore a pale green suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Visser, wore a grey and white outfit with a corsage of white carnations. The bride's sister, Mrs. R. Wills, chose a blue printed silk sheath with a white carnation corsage. The groom's brother, Bernard Visser, was best man, and usher, T. McCulloch.

A reception party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wills, 2535 Kilgus Place. Dr. G. P. Thomas proposed the toast to the bride.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a black tailored suit with white accessories.

Tiered Lace Over Satin Worn By Miss Cordingley

Gowned in a bridal dress of tiers of lace over satin, Miss Gertrude Alice Cordingley, was lovely as she entered St. John's Anglican Church at Colwood for her wedding to Mr. Bernard Riddle.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Cordingley, 433 Island Highway, was given in marriage by her father. The fitted bodice of her gown was of sequin-embossed lace with florets of pearls at the deep neckline. Elbow length gloves entwined with her headpiece of sequins and pearls from which mistled a fingertip veil. Her jewelry was of pearls and she carried a bridal bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Chuck Akendose and brides-matron, Mrs. Stan Hopkins, sister of the bride, were identically gowned in ballerina-length dresses of white nylon over orchid, with matching sashes. Their head bandeaux and bouquets were of yellow carnations. Little Cathie Cordingley, niece of the bride, was dressed in a matching white and orchid frock.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Riddle, 410 Dupplin Road, had Stan Hopkins as best man. Ushers were Les Curtis, and George Riddle, brother of the groom.

Daffodils and Easter lilies were placed on the altar for the ceremony performed by Rev. Page of Colwood. Organist, J. Flatman, accompanied soloist, Jennifer Savage who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" at the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Chez Marcel, where Herb Cordingley, brother of the bride, proposed the toast. A spring floral setting highlighted the bride's table centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Portland, Ore., the bride wore a silver and pink embroidered dress topped with an avocado duster coat. Her accessories were avocado and pink, and her corsage was of rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddle will make their home at Colwood.

This bride (left) wears a long line strapless bra that fits snugly through the bodice and down over the hips for a smooth line. It's exactly right for her wedding dress (centre). Dress is smooth through bodice and hipline, flares out over net petticoats. The same bra-lette is worn (right) under a pretty cotton print. Like the wedding dress, it's fitted close to the figure but this has very full, flaring skirt. Be sure to have your foundation garment fitted well in advance.

When Choosing Bridal Foundation Type of Garment, Fit Is Important

It's never wise to buy a foundation garment without being properly fitted for it. And since every bride-to-be puts a great deal of loving care into the selection of her wedding dress, it is more important than ever that she give careful consideration to the fit and type of foundation she chooses to wear with it.

The two should be perfectly co-ordinated, for it's the foundation beneath that accounts for the perfection of the gown's fit. If the wedding dress is a sheath, an all-in-one corselet is the right foundation. But if a tight-bodied gown with a bouffant skirt is to be worn, a bra-lette, that indispensable aid to the minimum waistline, is definitely needed.

The neckline should be watched, too. For not even the laiciest of underpinnings should be showing.

The nicest thing about a well-fitting foundation is that it can be worn under summer daytime and evening dresses, as part of the trousseau on the wedding trip—and for continuing wear long after the big day.

The bride who will be wearing a bra-lette is fortunate, for it comes not only in traditional white, but in all the pastels in which a wedding dress might be chosen. And its styling varies to suit different figures.

For the honeymoon, of course, other under-fashion garments will be needed. Here are a few hints on what to take along:

A high-rise girdle should be worn with slim sheaths; a waist-high girdle for shirtwaist dresses, and a pantie girdle for sports clothes. Except for wear under a sheath wedding gown, a corselet is optional, depending on whether all-over control is necessary.

Wedding Rings, Vows Exchanged In Candlelit Church Ceremony

Flickering candles shed a soft light on arrangements of yellow forsythia, golden daffodils and spring blossoms in First United Church, Ladysmith, as Rev. Thomas B. McMillan performed the double-ring ceremony in which were united Miss Margaret Isabelle Ruth Strang and Kenneth Wilfred Weeks.

Mrs. Dave Mason played traditional wedding music during the ceremony, and soloist, James C. Mason sang "O Perfect Love".

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Strang, 128 Roberts Street, Ladysmith, was given in marriage by her father.

For the ceremony she wore a floor-length gown of white Viennese lace over nylon tulle fashioned on princess lines with long lily-point sleeves. Front and back panels of nylon tulle accented the very full flared skirt, and the bodice of lace was fashioned with a Sabina neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls.

Her chapel-length veil of tulle decorated the bride's table held to a coronet of pleated Legion Memorial Hall. John tulle trimmed with seed pearls. Gourlay proposed the toast to the brides future happiness.

For travelling, the bride wore an oatmeal-toned basket weave coat with silk dress and bolero. Her hat accessories were in complementary shades, and her corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Following a motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Weeks will live at 108 White Street in Ladysmith.

Attendants were: Maid of honor, Miss Goldie Gudal of Chemainus; bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Cameron, Victoria; junior bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Weeks the groom's sister, of Victoria, and Miss Sharon Strang, cousin of the bride. All attendants were gowned alike in ballerina-length dresses of buttercup yellow nylon tulle featuring wise sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls. They wore matching feathered headbands and mitts, and carried crescents of pink carnations and ivy.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weeks, 1147, Lockley Street, had his brother, Bill Weeks as best man. Ushering guests to floral-marked pews were Jack Harris, Ted Ridgway and John Gillanders.

Police Nab Four Suspects In $14,000 Hotel Robbery

(From The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—Four suspects, all in their early 20s, were arrested by a 12-man team of police detectives and commandos less than an hour after the Drake Hotel in downtown Vancouver was robbed of $14,500 Thursday afternoon.

Police credited a girl of 18 and a boy of 13 with providing the clues that led to the arrests.

Charges were expected to be laid today.

Three men were apprehended at 3:30 p.m. in a room of the Marble Arch Hotel, half a mile from the waterfront hotel where the holdup occurred at 2:30 p.m. The fourth suspect, described by police as a lookout, was arrested in a hallway of the Marble Arch.

The three were counting a huge pile of currency spread over a bed when Supt. Ben Jelley and Det. Sgt. Ian McGregor went to the first-floor room and arrested them.

A loaded automatic pistol was found in the room, police said.

The two young witnesses, Jack Mills and Joy Boyer, gave police a description of the car in which the bandits fled from the holdup scene. Minutes later Const. Bill Simmons spotted the old model car parked two doors from the Marble Arch.

NO RESISTANCE

The teen-agers were driven to the Marble Arch in police cars and identified the vehicle spotted by Simmons. Squads of police surrounded the hotel while the arrests were made. There apparently was no resistance.

The daring daylight robbery was executed by two young men, one of who wore dark sunglasses and carried an automatic pistol. They forced Harry Low, assistant manager of the Drake, to open the office safe, then scooped up the entire $14,500 which the hotel received by armored car Thursday morning to handle the cashing of cheques in the beer parlor.

FISHERMEN BACK UNION

VANCOUVER — A renewed meeting between fishing-boat owners and union representatives broke down Thursday night. No progress was made towards settlement of a strike by 1,000 B.C. halibut fishermen. The meeting, which lasted less than an hour, came shortly after halibut fishermen voted confidence in the negotiating committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.).

The union said 73 per cent of the membership voted by secret ballot to endorse the union's stand. A spokesman for the left-wing union declined to say how many members voted.

The meeting produced new offers by the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association which were rejected by the union.

FRUIT INDUSTRY PROBE

PENTICTON—Canning more of British Columbia's fruit crop instead of selling it fresh may return a better profit to growers, a royal commission was told Thursday.

Fred Mathers of a New Westminster fruit cannery presented the idea on behalf of the Canned Foods Association of B.C. to E. D. MacPhee, who is conducting a one-man inquiry into the province's fruit-growing industry.

Mr. Mathers said a proper cost analysis would show whether canning or selling fruit fresh pays best.

Folks! Here are muffins to really butter up to. The old-fashioned kind, with wonderful All-Brant flavor. Make 'em tonight!

1 cup Kellogg's All-Brant
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
1/2 cup soft shortening
1 cup sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar

Combine All-Brant and milk. Let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and shortening; beat well.

Sift together: flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add to the first mixture, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pan 3/4 full.

Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes.

Yield: 9 muffins.

NO DISCUSSION ON HOODLUMS SAYS WILLISTON

PRINCE GEORGE — Lands Minister Ray Williston met Thursday with Mayor John Morrison and city council members.

Mr. Williston said later there was no discussion of hoodlums here. A small gang of hoodlums has been reported terrorizing the city. The minister, who represents Fort George in the legislature, was reported earlier to have planned to discuss the problem.

Dictatorial Legislation Kills B.C. Mining Says Industrialist

VANCOUVER (CP) — Industrialist Austin C. Taylor says dictatorial provincial legislation is killing mining in British Columbia.

Mr. Taylor, president of Bralorne Mines Ltd., told the annual meeting of shareholders here:

"How far this fellow (Premier W. A. C. Bennett) thinks he's a dictator, I don't know, but what the B.C. government is doing to mining in this province is a very serious matter."

"I don't know whether they have killed the golden goose, but they are certainly eating the eggs."

Mr. Taylor was referring to major changes in the Mineral Act passed by the legislature in March.

The new mining laws are contained in two bills: One provides for taxing ore in the ground and the second abolishes the system of the Crown granting mineral claims and introduces a method of leasing.

"The present government," Mr. Taylor said, "has put in acts very detrimental to mining. I would go so far as to say they are detrimental to more than mining."

He asked shareholder Archie MacGillivray, who had returned from a visit to the Yukon, to tell what mining men in northern B.C. think of the legislation.

Mr. MacGillivray said the exodus of prospectors from B.C. to the Yukon is "quite something. They no longer know where they stand."

with the B.C. government but they're left alone in the Yukon.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston Thursday night defended B.C.'s new Mineral Act, which does away with Crown grants on mineral reserves and introduces leasehold, as being in the best interests of B.C.

Large firms will no longer be able to hold large reserves and "sit" on them, he told a Social Credit rally.

"If it is found that mining claims can be practical and feasible producers and the holder sits on them, then the leasehold gets tighter."

Engine Ousting Man In Running Engines

BY JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Human coordination no longer is accurate enough to guide today's complex machinery or precise measuring equipment. It is being displaced by another product of man's ingenuity—automatic control gadgets.

Man has a role to play where his power of reasoning is preferable to the inflexibility and danger of failure of automatic control systems.

An automatic device that could detect a change in the tone of an aircraft engine or a weakness in the controls, forced the pros and cons of a weird landing and then execute one still has to be invented. Man's ability to think puts him above the machine in an emergency of this kind.

THE HUMAN FACTOR

Until recent years measuring instruments were an aid only to manual measurements by man. As of machinery, aiming of guns or driving of vehicles was good or bad depending on the skill or the mood of the human controlling the operation.

"On every hand demands of speed, power and precision are causing a change in the relation to the machine," says J. A. Tanner and C. A. M. Smith of the National Research Council's aircraft and instrument laboratory. "The resulting change undoubtedly will affect our potential productivity and standards of living."

The two scientists quoted three examples where the task of controlling or measuring often is too difficult for the average unaided human.

1. Training periods for pilots and navigators of high-speed jet aircraft are becoming longer and the number of failures greater.

2. Precision of control required in many industrial processes makes manual control uneconomical.

3. Scientists are finding it impossible to cope with the speed and accuracy demanded by some of today's more complex experiments.

VARYING TIME LAG

Experiments have shown there is a time lag of about two-tenths of a second before the hand acts on a message recorded by the eye. The tests also have shown that this time lag never is constant.

Mr. Tanner and Mr. Smith describe this variation in the time lag as "the will-o'-the-wisp nature of the human agent" as an operator of automatic machinery.

As a result, the monitoring function of the human in reading and interpreting instruments, and in many cases deciding what corrective action should be taken, is being replaced by automatic devices. Instruments which formerly measured and indicated now are being equipped and used to measure, indicate and control.

"These steps have been highly significant in the development of instrumentation," the two scientists say, "for they have not only freed the automatic control system from the limitations of the physical and nervous systems of the human, but they have also relieved the human of many monotonous monitoring tasks."

SIMPLE EXAMPLE

A water-level gauge developed by NRC is a simple example of the automatic principle. Prior to its development tests of water surface elevations on scale river models were made by trained technicians.

Readings were taken by means of a point gauge. When the point of the gauge met its reflection in the water a reading could be taken on a micrometer.

"The over-all accuracy of these measurements, made by several human observers, was intolerably low," Mr. Smith says. "Not only was the setting of the point gauges tedious... but when the water surface was subject to periodic movement, the human observer became quite inadequate as a measuring means."

A complex automatic measuring instrument was developed to replace the human observer. The exact elevation is transmitted electronically to a self-recording instrument after the surface of the water.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Diamond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dan Phillips, age 12, Spokane, Wash., for his question:

Will the sun ever burn itself out?

If the sun were made of coal, it would all burn out in 5,000 years. This means it would last from the building of the pyramids to the present time. Since the sun has been shining on the earth for at least two billion years, we know that it is not a furnace of burning coal.

Actually, the sun is an atomic furnace. The activity is very much like the fury of the hydrogen bomb. Compared with the constantly burning sun, the bomb is a small explosion of atomic fusion. Basically, atoms of hydrogen are fusing together in fours to make atoms of helium. Several atomic particles are left over and, when the fusion process is multiplied by trillions, they "provide the energy of the sun."

The fuel used by the sun is hydrogen and the sun has a plentiful supply of it. Every second four million tons of fuel is used up to keep the solar furnace blazing. This atomic action has been going on for billions of years. It is estimated that the sun has enough hydrogen fuel to keep it cheerily burning away for at least another 15 billion years. So nobody has to worry about running short of sunshine.

It's lucky for us that the sun pours out its radiant energy at an even rate. If the solar furnace blazed up in a spurt four times its usual energy, our oceans would boil. If it sank to half its power, the seas would all freeze solid.

The atomic activity of the sun is said to take place deep in the centre. Surface temperatures are about 6,000 degrees Centigrade. In the centre, the temperature may be 20 million degrees. The atomic activity is generated down in this terrific heat and pressure.

The theory of solar energy states that it is a total of trillions of small atomic fusions. The process is a cycle of six complicated steps taking about five million years. Each little

New Bunny Bus For Palsied V.I. Children

A spanking new Volkswagen "Lions Easter Seal Bunny Bus" will be turned over "very shortly" to the Lower Vancouver Island Cerebral Palsy Association, Lions Club Easter Seal campaign chairman L. K. O'Neill announced today.

The bus will join two others being used to transport cerebral palsied children to therapy treatment and schooling at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

All have been financed through Easter seal contributions and donated by Lions clubs in Langford and District, Esquimalt, Chinatown and Victoria. The buses are driven by volunteer firemen.

Richardson Made Through-Street

A city-by-law which will make Richardson a through street between Foul Bay Road and Cook has been registered and stop signs will be re-located next week.

Public works officials said to avoid accidents, the change-over in traffic direction will be gradual.

Intersections of Richmond and Richardson, and Most and Richardson will become two-way stops for at least a month.

Then the stop signs will be removed from Richardson, giving traffic an uninterrupted flow for its whole length. Some paving is also expected to take place on Richardson.

This is one of the most fascinating and incredible stories ever to be told on the screen. A story of indomitable courage, humor, and the dogged determination to "carry on" under the most punishing handicaps. All done with the light-hearted understatement the British are past masters at. A real inspiration. Portrayed by the most perfectly cast Kenneth Robe. It provides unalloyed entertainment for the whole family. What better way to celebrate the anniversary of '81 George for Merrie England than to bring them all to witness one of Britain's most outstanding films of the year. All critics rate "Excellent".

COUNCIL ROUND-UP

City's Nurses Accept Salary Increase Offer

Victoria's 11 public health nurses have accepted a conciliation board award of a salary increase of about 5 per cent.

B.C. Labor Relations Branch advised council of the acceptance by Registered Nurses' Association of B.C. The union had asked the equivalent of a 16 per cent wage boost. Salaries now range between $270 and $328 a month.

Earlier police unionists won an 8 per cent wage hike and firemen 8½ per cent. Inside workers at City Hall won five per cent.

City council Thursday agreed to a $900,000 conversion of its street lighting system by E.C. Electric to permit higher voltage supply. Under the scheme about $64,000 in city light assets will transfer to the private company. After about eight years, costs to the city for street lighting will be reduced by about $17,000 annually.

A request from Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association to hold a "blanket" collection along the route of Victoria Day parade was turned down by city council Thursday.

The collection, by pensioners carrying a spread blanket had been approved earlier by finance committee providing it was also approved by Greater Victoria Celebrations Association. The GVCA opposed the move.

Council approved expenditure of $250 toward a convention banquet for War Amputees of Canada late in May. A similar sum was voted for the same purpose to the Naval Officers' Association of Canada, also late in May.

"No spot in the British Empire does less for the navy than we do," commented Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood. An unstated expenditure to provide a banquet for International Northwest Parks Association in August was also approved.

Finance committee was given power to act in presentation of crested blazers to members of the Victoria College basketball team, Vikings, which recently won a place in Canadian finals.

LONDON (UP)—Italian artist Pietro Annigoni, whose portrait of Queen Elizabeth has won wide acclaim, will arrive here next week to compete a portrait of Princess Margaret, it was announced today.

Teenagers Shocked By Parents' Habits!

Today's youth are shocked by the "indecent" way their parents used to act: cutting in at dances, dating another boy's girl. (Now kids are apt to think of matrimony by their fifth date!)

May Reader's Digest explores this new boy-girl relationship, "going steady" in the modern way and its effect on marriage. Get your May Reader's Digest today: 38 articles of lasting interest, including the best from current books and magazines, condensed to save your time.

Tractor Driver Pays Fine of $35

Careless tractor driving on Patricia Bay highway, without lights on the dark night of March 9 cost Ronald Polson, 5024 Patricia Bay, $35 in Saanich police court Thursday.

He was convicted when the court heard evidence that Polson made a U-turn on the west side of the highway to go north, and in so doing his tractor was struck on the rear by a car driven north by Freemont William Florence, 1427 Edgeware.

New Centennial Meeting May 16

As 657 City Clubs Miss First

Individual letters will go out to all of Victoria's 660 clubs and societies in a further attempt to draw them into Centennial year celebrations planning.

A meeting of group representatives Thursday night drew delegates from only three organizations—Victoria Horticultural Society, Victoria Outboard Club and Victoria Highland Games Association.

Plans revealed Thursday indicate the horticultural group will ask all other groups interested in flowers to join in a week-long festival of blooms on a scale that will guarantee province-wide interest.

Motorboat enthusiasts plan to arrange a regatta which will take in all boating groups and will include races and goodwill convoys to United States ports.

Highlanders hope to extend the annual Scottish games over a three or four-day period and open the festivities with a parade of 200 visiting pipers.

Centennial planners are hopeful other city groups will put forward plans as ambitious and attractive to visitors.

Committee called the meeting in order to co-ordinate club activities in 1958 and insure against overlapping.

A second meeting will be held at Central Junior High School auditorium, May 16, in the evening.

Red China Trade Ban To Be Eased

St. Laurent Indicates New Policy; Original Talks Held in Bermuda

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—An "easing" of the present trade barriers against Communist China is under consideration, Prime Minister St. Laurent told reporters Thursday at a press conference.

"I think there will be some easing in that situation," he said in reply to questions. He did not elaborate.

He prefaced that comment by declaring that the question of easing trade restrictions with Red China had been discussed at the Bermuda conferences between the British and Americans and later between the British and Canadians. That was all Mr. St. Laurent would say on the subject.

British Prime Minister Macmillan raised the issue of relaxing the China embargo at his meeting with President Eisenhower. Later he informed Prime Minister St. Laurent of the results of his representations.

The principal pressure for relaxing controls on trade with Communist China has come from Britain. The British have argued that the embargo list on China trade should not be higher than the level of the embargo list on trade with the Soviet.

The U.S. State Department has outlined, following the Bermuda conference, the modifications it was prepared to discuss in relaxing trade embargoes between the free world and Communist China. The U.S. has agreed to consider changes involving three basic points.

The U.S. is planning no relaxation as far as its own trade with China is concerned, it is understood.

The U.S. proposals have been presented to the embassies of the 14 nations that are party to the multilateral embargo system. The proposals have these points.

Certain items for peaceful use now embargoed for shipment to Communist China would be removed from controls and given the same status as trade with European Soviet bloc countries. Stricter rules have been applied to Communist China in the past due to its active role in the Korean War. The controls list for European Soviet bloc nations, differs on the ground that they were not actual belligerents.

Other specific items now embargoed to Communist China would remain under embargo and be transferred to the European Soviet bloc list but subject to a "lesser degree of control."

The so-called exceptions procedure would be tightened so that some countries could step up trade despite the allied controls.

Net effect of these modifications might bring the West's trade with Communist China closer into line with trade with the Soviet bloc in Europe. Whether it would step up trade with China was not definite.

Sightseeing Plane Passengers Killed In Mid-Air Crash

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Two small planes of the Geneva Aero Club collided over the city today and crashed only 100 yards from a main thoroughfare. Six persons—four of them on a $5 sightseeing tour—were killed.

Algerians Bomb Blasts Kill 5

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Three bomb explosions Thursday night killed five persons and wounded eight in Oran, chief city of Western Algeria. A Moslem child was killed and six severely injured when a parcel they found in a field on the outskirts of the city exploded as one of them tried to untie it. A second bomb which exploded soon after in a grocer's shop in the same part of the city blew a man to pieces.

UN's Red China Stand Hurts B.C. Trade—Andrew

United Nations refusal to recognize Red China has had a "calamitous" effect on B.C. trade, Dean Geoffrey Andrew, deputy president of UBC, said here Thursday night.

"The UN is giving over areas of trade and other interest to the Communist block in not having relations with China," he told the annual meeting of the UBC Alumni Association, Victoria branch, at Victoria College.

"A great deal of B.C.'s trade before the war was with the Orient," he said. "And the future of our trade depends in some measure on our understanding of the Asian countries."

The recently-instituted department of Asian studies at UBC is one step towards a reappraisal of Asiatic economic, political and social life, he said. "It is a matter of national importance that such a development take place."

Russia Cuts Consumer Prices

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government Thursday ordered price cuts ranging from 10 to 32 per cent on a few widely assorted consumer items. It was the first price reduction in the Soviet Union since last spring. Seven categories of products were affected, such as alarm clocks and record players.

National Hospital Plan in Force May 1

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Prime Minister L. S. Laurent announced here Thursday that an order in council has been passed fixing May 1 this year as the date on which the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act will come into force.

After that date if six provinces including Ontario sign hospitalization agreements with the federal government and have provincial enabling legislation on their statute books, any one of those provinces can make the federal-provincial hospital insurance scheme operative within that province.

Saskatchewan and British Columbia, which already have hospitalization schemes set up and operating in their provinces, are expected to be the first provinces to start receiving federal contributions under the new plan from Ottawa.

Whether Saskatchewan and British Columbia can have the federal government participating before the end of this year will depend on the four other provinces, including Ontario.

EVEN AGREE
There are now seven provinces that have declared their readiness to participate in the federal-provincial scheme. They are: British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Premier R. L. Stanfield of Nova Scotia announced Wednesday at a conservative nominating convention that the Nova Scotia government proposes to have the hospital insurance program in operation by Jan. 1, 1959. He said his government plans to submit enabling legislation to the Nova Scotia legislature in 1958.

Mr. St. Laurent said Hon. Paul Martin, minister of National health and welfare, had been carrying on negotiations with other provinces including Manitoba. The only exception was Quebec.

Asked to comment on the milestone that has been passed in bringing the hospital insurance legislation to the stage where it was to come into force, Mr. St. Laurent was reluctant.

"Well you know I am somewhat old fashioned. Our well-rehearsed legislation has progressed quite rapidly. I think the majority of the Canadian people wanted it to progress rapidly," he said, choosing his words carefully.

The Prime Minister doubted that the federal government would be required to make payments this year. He implied that he doubted that six provinces including Ontario would have signed the necessary agreements and have the required enabling legislation passed by their legislatures, and approved by federal law officers, before the year's end.

NOT PROBABLE
Pressed as to whether it might not be possible for the agreements and legislation to have been signed and approved before 1958, Mr. St. Laurent conceded that it might be possible but not probable.

He did make it clear that in 1958 provinces such as British Columbia and Saskatchewan—with schemes already organized—would be able to get the participating plan set up and operating without waiting for Ontario to set its plan in motion in 1959.

Ontario has said it does not expect its plan to be ready to operate until Jan. 1, 1959. A province such as Ontario would have its scheme "in force" but not actually operating, by signing the agreements and passing the required legislation, he pointed out.

Mr. St. Laurent believed that all provinces that had indicated their readiness to participate in the federal-provincial scheme would be anxious to get their own schemes set up and working "just as soon as possible."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL
PRINCE GEORGE — Daniel Blech, 19-year-old mechanic charged with motor manslaughter in connection with the death last November of Erik Byman, was committed for trial at the Spring Azzies in May, following his preliminary hearing on Thursday.

Byman died at the wheel of his pickup truck following a head-on collision with a gravel truck driven by Blech on the Vanderhoof highway about three miles south of here.

'QUAKE HITS EAST U.S.—IRAN DEATH TOLL 21

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—A "strong local" earthquake shook sections of New England today—most heavily along its rocky coastline—but there were no reports of damage or injury.

Disturbance was placed at about 105 miles northeast of Boston.

In Turkey, a series of 'quakes rocked the Aegean sea-coast Wednesday night and Thursday, killing 15 villagers, injuring 40 and destroying 400 homes and buildings. Earth tremors also shook Rhodes and the other Dodecanese Islands early Thursday, injuring 11.

In Iran, the death toll from Tuesday's temblor rose to 21.

Atom Task Force Key to New Navy

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced that four of her five battleships will be scrapped this year in a thorough reorganization of the Royal Navy for nuclear warfare.

In place of the battleships, the backbone of Britain's Second World War fleet—the navy will concentrate on "roving" task forces built around aircraft carriers equipped with nuclear and rocket weapons.

Lord Selkirk, first lord of the admiralty, revealed the new program today in a parliamentary memorandum on navy estimates for the coming financial year. It is part of Britain's sweeping five-year plan to reshape her defence establishment with prime reliance on the hydrogen bomb.

Critics of the program claim it will reduce the "senior service," with its proud tradition as a great sea power since the days of Drake and Nelson, to a second-class navy.

Asdic Sub Detection Improved

But Lord Selkirk said today: "The role of the navy, modified and developed in the way that has been described, continues to be of greatest importance to this country's defence."

One notable disclosure, in view of Russia's growing submarine fleet, is that a new asdic set (submarine detector) has been produced "with several times greater range than anything we have possessed previously."

Another important disclosure was that Britain has a new atom-bomb-carrying naval plane, the NA-39, under development. It was described as "a most formidable addition to the striking power of the Royal Navy."

The four battleships to be scrapped are the King George V, Duke of York, Anson and Howe. Only the Vanguard, youngest of the five and now on reserve, will be retained.

Selkirk said the chief aim of the "roving" fleet of aircraft carrier task forces is to operate for long periods independently of conventional shore bases.

At present Britain has an operational fleet of 270 vessels, including six aircraft carriers, nine cruisers, 21 destroyers and 41 submarines. These are backed by a reserve fleet of more than 400 ships, including six aircraft carriers, 11 cruisers, 36 destroyers, 109 frigates, 19 submarines, 189 minesweepers and the battleship Vanguard.

FAST WORK AS 'COPTER CRASHES

Three Rescued From Strait

A United States Navy helicopter crashed in Juan De Fuca Strait about 20 miles from Victoria Thursday, and three men aboard were saved by prompt action by the Port Angeles Coast Guard.

The survivors were in the water for less than 20 minutes before being picked up by a coast guard helicopter.

The crashed craft was on a routine flight to the naval air station at Whidbey Island.

Piloted by Chief Aviation Pilot A. K. Babbitt, it had picked up a passenger at the Port Angeles Coast Guard station, and was airborne at 3:11 p.m.

"MAYDAY"

At 3:16 p.m., the operator on duty at the coast guard air station control tower, Robert Blivens, heard a "Mayday" call from the navy copter. (Mayday is the voice radio distress signal.)

The "Mayday" was repeated three times.

Blivens answered the call, but received no reply.

He immediately alerted the Coast Guard operations office, and at 3:18—two minutes after the distress call—a Sikorsky helicopter took to the air.

Following the flight plan of the downed craft, the rescue copter spotted the three survivors in the water, eight miles east of Ediz Hook, at 3:26 p.m.

All three were wearing life jackets. The rescue craft lowered a line, picked one man out of the water, and took him to the beach, near Dungeness.

It then returned, rescued the other two, and ferried them to the coast guard station at Port Angeles.

The coast guard cutters and an amphibian plane also took part in the rescue operation. The survivors were in hospital.

A. K. BABBITT
... saved from icy strait

28 minutes after the "Mayday" call was heard.

All three men were reported in good condition today, suffering from extreme shock from the cold water, and minor cuts and bruises.

Passengers in the crashed helicopter, which lies in 120 feet of water, were G. W. Huntley and R. B. Everly.

Pilot of the coast guard helicopter was Lt.-Cmdr. D. Gershowitz.

U.S. Warns Mid-East: Don't Meddle in Jordan

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

The United States has warned Israel, Syria, Egypt and other Middle Eastern countries not to worsen the situation in Jordan, where the government staged a massive clean-up of leftist leaders and general calm prevailed today.

King Hussein, the victor after 48 hours of crisis caused by pro-Communist elements, was firmly in command of things. His army held the nation in the iron grip of martial law with a ban in effect on all public prayer services.

Some estimates said as many as 600 persons had been picked up for questioning, many of them from the ultra-nationalist, pro-Soviet, pro-Egyptian and pro-Syrian parties who had supported ousted former Premier Suleiman Nabulsi's coalition government.

One Amman spokesman said the former premier was a "fugitive."

But Nabulsi later was reported to be at his home in Amman, although he refused to see newsmen or any other callers.

U.S. sources said that the situation in Jordan "if anything, is perhaps a little better (today) than yesterday," and that King Hussein has not asked the United States for assistance during the present emergency.

The decision to speed the U.S. Sixth Fleet into the Eastern Mediterranean in a forceful show apparently has had a calming effect.

Tornado Rips Oklahoma Town, Damage Heavy

HOLDENVILLE, Okla. (AP)—A tree-top-high tornado hit this small Oklahoma town Thursday night, felling power lines, smashing store fronts in a three-block downtown area and hitting some houses. No one was injured.

The Holdenville Red Cross said that about 25 or 30 homes had been damaged. A tentative damage estimate was $150,000.

One person was killed and 18 others hurt as a tornado swooped down on the little southeast Nebraska town of Milford Thursday night.

Between 75 and 100 Milford homes and business establishments were demolished or damaged.

Eyewitnesses reported "utter confusion" at Milford where power and telephone lines were knocked out.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Thunderstorms rumbled across northwest Texas today, threatening still more floods in this storm-battered state.

Governor Price Daniel said he will ask President Eisenhower to designate the worst-stricken areas for federal disaster relief.

Heavy Clouds Hinder Search For B.C. Plane

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy clouds hampered the search today for a light plane, missing with three men aboard on a flight from Penticton to Vancouver.

RCAF officials said one aircraft returned this morning and another was on its way back from searching the area west of Hope, 100 miles east of here. A Dakota and an Expediter were searching further east under a low ceiling.

Missing since Wednesday night are: Walter L. Dalton, 42, insurance and real estate executive from Vancouver; W. Robert McLachlan, 37, head of a mortgage corporation here; and Fred McDowell, 46-year-old public relations officer and free-lance radio producer.

The three left Penticton, 200 miles east of here, at 7:46 p.m. Wednesday. They were last heard from flying over Princeton, 150 miles east of here.

Reports of wreckage washed ashore on Lasquet Island in Georgia Strait have been discounted as a clue to the missing plane.

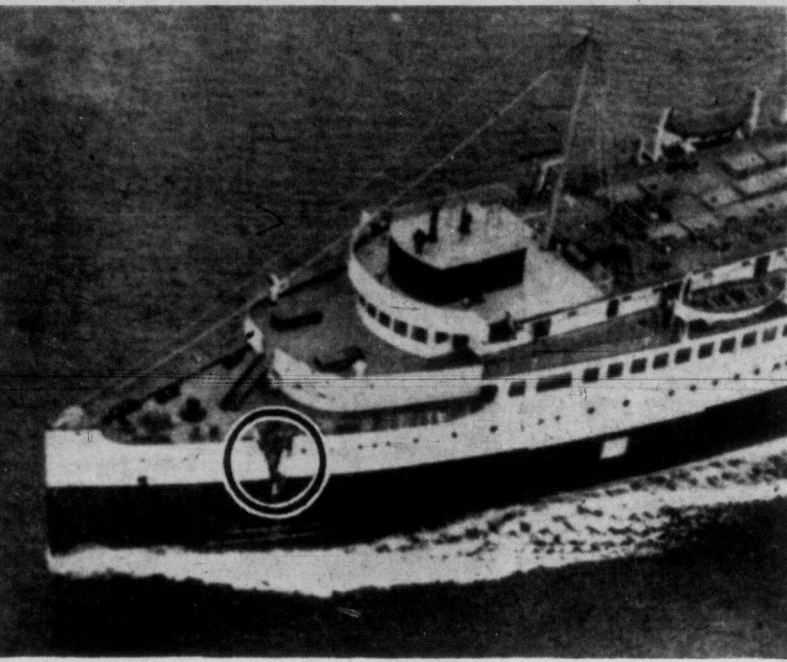

'WAR INEVITABLE'

War is inevitable, according to ex-Victorian John Plant, above, former air vice marshal in the RCAF, who is visiting Victoria. (See interview on page 31.)

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, change us, and everything will be changed. Keep us from quarreling with our circumstances. Take from us complaining spirits. Save us from self-pity. Give us confidence that we shall be able to do all things through Christ who is our strength. Give us the will to say a kind word today, to do a generous deed. Thou wilt not fail us; in Christ's name. Amen.

PRINCESS JOAN DAMAGED IN CRASH

Gash in hull of Princess Joan is about 30 feet aft of bow on port side. Prow of freighter sliced into unoccupied cabin in crew's quarters. CPR hopes to have ship back in service by first of week. (AP Wirephoto.)

Victoria Ferry Near Disaster Off Sidney

The veteran CPR steamer Princess Joan brushed close to a major sea disaster at 2:05 a.m. today when she was in collision with the Japanese freighter Tatakawa Maru off Sidney.

The raking prow of the freighter sliced into the Joan, about 30 feet abaft the port bow, in a dense fog.

The passenger steamer was deeply cut. The freighter's prow plowed into a crew cabin, unoccupied at the time.

The wound in the Joan was well above the waterline. A CPR spokesman said the steamer was at dead slow at the time and that the freighter was believed to have been proceeding at about six knots.

Passengers—many of whom were awakened by the constant hooting of the ship's foghorn—rushed on deck at the time of the crash.

There was no panic, but some felt an "Andrea Doria" disaster had been averted only by a miracle, and smart ship-handling on the part of the Joan's officers, lookout men, and helmsman.

The Joan, night steamer to Vancouver, was just over two hours out of Victoria at the time of the crash.

The Tatakawa Maru was bound from Vancouver to Seattle.

The Joan reached Vancouver only minutes after her scheduled arrival time of 7 a.m.

TO SEATTLE

The freighter, which received no measurable damage, docked at Seattle at 9:30 a.m.

The seaman lookout on duty when the collision occurred, said "we didn't have a chance to miss it at all."

Don Cymbal, 19, said he asked the other lookout, Klaus Daniso, to remain with him at their bow lookout position when he went on duty at 2 a.m.

"I wanted him to stay with me because the fog was thick and we knew another ship was close by," said Cymbal.

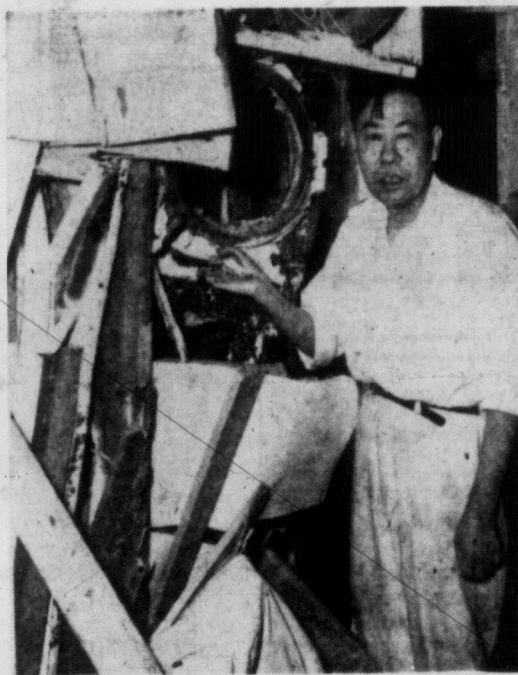

YELLED TO BRIDGE

"It was about five minutes after that we saw a light on the port side. I yelled it up to the bridge."

"The light appeared as if it was going to pass alongside of us. Then, all of a sudden, this big bow burst out of the fog right in front of us."

"I yelled 'full astern,' but I don't know whether or not they heard it on the bridge."

Mrs. Anna Dingman of Vancouver, returning home with Miss Jean Woodrow following a vacation in Victoria, said that around 1:30 a.m. the Princess Joan, which had been moving slowly, stopped altogether.

MISSED DEATH BY INCHES

Stanley Duk, cook on Princess Joan, missed death by 12 inches when prow of Japanese freighter entered ship close to his head. He was thrown from bunk by impact, trapped when door jammed, had to be rescued by fire axes. (AP Wirephoto.)

A Vancouver reporter, Alex Young, who was aboard the Princess Joan, wrote: "The words 'Andrea Doria' were on the lips of many people as they worriedly discussed what had happened."

"I saw the massive, ghostly outline of the Tatakawa Maru bear down on the Joan out of the fog. 'I had been awakened by booming foghorns sounded as soon as the CPR vessel entered the big fog patch off Kellett Bluff on San Juan Island."

"I could hear people rushing about the corridors of the Princess Joan. I looked out of my cabin window and less than 50 yards away I could see the dim lights of the Tatakawa Maru moving towards our ship, which had come almost to a full stop in the fog."

"Later, Captain John A. Campbell of the Joan told me the Japanese vessel was moving at about six knots when it struck the bow of the Joan ...

FULLY DRESSED

"We sat up in our cabin beds fully dressed because we sensed that something might happen," Mrs. Dingman said. "Miss Woodrow had just got out of her bed to look into the porthole when the freighter struck us, and she was thrown to the floor."

Officers cut their way through the door of a cabin in which the two Chinese cooks—Stanley Duk, 65, of Vancouver and Henry Choy, 58, of Victoria—were trapped, and found them unharmed.

"SUDDEN MILD BUMP"

"When the crash came it was a sudden mild bump. The Joan rolled away. The Tatakawa Maru had its engines going full reverse, but it wasn't enough to avert the collision."

Captain Campbell had been called to the bridge to supervise when the fog patch settled. He said: "I was only there three or four minutes when we collided. I don't know what happened. We took the correct action by turning to starboard."

CAMERA CATCHES COMET

Comet 1956-H, caught in this photograph through a University of Michigan telescope Thursday night has been the elusive quarry of astronomers at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich who saw it last night but were unable to photograph it because of low clouds. Photo shows 5,000,000 of the 7,000,000-mile-long comet. Bright area is the centre of the comet and the two streaks are its two tails, unusual on a comet. The brighter tail goes away from the sun, the other toward it. Small dots are stars. (AP Wirephoto.)

B.C. Drops Plan For Temporary Gov't House

(See also Page 19)

Plans to find a temporary Government House for Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross have been dropped, Works Minister W. N. Chant said today.

It is understood Mr. and Mrs. Ross will continue to use the vice-regal suite of the Empress Hotel while a new residence is being constructed on the site of the old building destroyed by fire last week.

Government House offices are now located in the main Legislative Building.

FOR CENTENNIAL

Premier Bennett said at his press conference Wednesday he still hopes that the new Government House will be completed for the B.C. centennial next year.

Plans for the new building were to be discussed by the cabinet today.

The premier said he hopes it will retain the same "atmosphere," particularly inside. Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross apparently decided against making a move into a temporary residence. They are leaving this weekend for Europe and will be away for the next six weeks.

Approaches were made to owners of a few homes in the Victoria area suitable for a temporary Government House before it was decided to continue the present arrangement.

U.S. Accepts Egypt's Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States agreed today to accept Egypt's Suez plan on a provisional basis, but reserved its final acceptance until the plan has been put to trial.

The U.S. position was laid before the UN Security Council by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who said the plan announced by the Egyptian government earlier this week left much to be desired.

Lodge announced that, pending a final settlement, U.S. vessels will be authorized to pay tolls to Egypt only under protest, as had been the case since President Nasser nationalized the 103-mile waterway last July. French delegate Guillaume Georges-Picot blasted the Egyptian plan as "a unilateral act." He said it provides no guarantees on freedom of shipping, no guarantees for the co-operation of Egypt and the users and no guarantees for improvement of the canal.

CCF PARLEY ATTACKS WENNER-GREN DEAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two top executives of the CCF indicated today the Wenner-Gren deal in northern British Columbia will be used as anti-Social Credit ammunition in the coming federal general election.

Robert Strachan, provincial leader of the party, said in his opening address to the 24th provincial CCF convention that the multi-million-dollar industrial proposal "clearly indicated that Social Credit is carrying out the give-away policy of the coalition government."

Mr. Strachan's views were echoed by Alex Macdonald, president of the B.C. party, who said that "never was the alliance of big business and government more obvious" than in the Wenner-Gren deal.

BROTHERLY DISAGREEMENT — President Eisenhower (right) laughed off criticism of his budget and his Administration by his brother, Edgar (centre). The Chief Executive said at his news conference that "Edgar has been criticizing me since I was five years old." At La Grange, Ill., a younger brother of the President, Earl (left), defended Edgar's "right" to criticize the budget, and expressed doubts of his own over federal aid to higher education. The three are shown here in Philadelphia in August, 1955.

Helicopter Firms Get Together To Standardize Charter Tariff

Executives of Canada's 14 helicopter companies met in Victoria today to hammer out a standard charter tariff for helicopter travel.

They conferred privately at the spring conference of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, and suggested rates were discussed.

The final tariff, however, will be decided at an executive conference in Quebec City next November.

"We are not aiming at a standard rate so much as standard conditions of carriage and standard methods of assessing charges," said William McLeod, superintendent of the helicopter division of Pacific Western Airlines, Vancouver.

The closed meeting was attended by executives of the Okanagan group—biggest helicopter organization in the world—comprising Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., Canadian Helicopters of Toronto and United Helicopters of Torbay, Newfoundland.

"We are mainly concerned with contract charter work," Mr. McLeod said. "At the meeting we also discussed education of helicopter operators in technical schools across Canada."

He added that Pacific Western Airlines now operate 11 helicopters mainly in B.C. and the Yukon.

Attending the AITA conference are representatives of Avro Aircraft Ltd., Bristol Aero Engines (Western) Ltd., Canada Ltd., De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Rolls-Royce of Canada Ltd., and other leading firms.

Meetings on industrial and transport problems, with panels and discussions, are open only to AITA members and special guests.

Delegates are taking part in a golf tournament at Oak Bay this afternoon.

GAME OFFICE SKUNKED

Pretty 'Kitty' Home in City?

Pepe le Pew, skunk sans smell, today awaits ze owner. Pepe, a deodorized animal, is resting in the home of game warden W. J. Lenfesty, Brentwood. The skunk was picked up Wednesday near Parson's Bridge.

It definitely has an owner somewhere as there are no deodorizing stations in the woods, and besides, there are no wild skunks on Vancouver Island.

A game department official said Pepe remains unclaimed probably because the owner doesn't possess a licence.

There are no actual skunk licences, like dog tags, but to own a wild fur-bearing animal a permit must be obtained from the provincial agricultural department.

The box score on skunks to date is one found, one lost this week.

Negro Youth Shot on Street

CHICAGO (AP)—A 17-year-old Negro was killed by a shot-gun blast as he walked along a street.

The shooting of Curtis Bevins climaxed a fresh outbreak of teen-age violence in Chicago. The gun was fired from a moving car containing two youths and a 17-year-old girl.

Police said David Vandersteeg, 19, a laborer, admitted he fired the shot-gun.

Prince Rupert Seeks Beer Price Hike to 15c Glass

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Seven hotel beer parlors opened here this morning after a five-day strike.

New agreement provides for a 15-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to Nov. 27, 1956, two weeks holiday with pay, and other fringe benefits.

Operators said they would increase the price of beer to two glasses for 25 cents from 10 cents a glass. A single glass will cost 15 cents if permission is received from the Liquor Control board.

Lodge Funeral Notice

An Emergent Communication of Camosun Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 60, B.C.R. will be held in the Masonic Temple, Douglas Street, on Saturday, April 27, 1957, at 1:30 p.m. for the purpose of conducting the funeral of our late Wor. Bro. Charles Clearwater Cranston.

Members of Sister Lodges and adjoining brethren in good standing are cordially invited to attend.

B.C. Airlines Will Continue Operation Here

B.C. Airlines, the charter line operated by Victoria pilot Maurice McGregor, will continue under its present program of expansion to operate float planes from Esquimalt, Mr. McGregor said today.

The company holds the only air harbor licence for Esquimalt.

Stocky, plain-spoken Mr. McGregor is attending a spring conference of the Air Industries and Transport Association at the Empress Hotel.

"Although developments have made it necessary to move our operational and maintenance headquarters to Vancouver, our float planes will continue to be based here," he said.

In addition, the company will have machines available at Vancouver and other bases. It operates 30 Beaver and Cessna aircraft.

Boy Saves Pal

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A 13-year-old Prince Rupert boy jumped into icy water Thursday afternoon to save a school chum from drowning.

Hughie McKenzie was fishing with his 12-year-old companion Ricky Newson when Ricky slipped from a log on which he had been standing.

Hughie sent Ricky's younger brother for help and then jumped into the water after his friend.

Said Hughie: The only time I was scared was when I saw Ricky disappear under the water. I knew he couldn't swim.

Topaz Garbage Landfill Again Proposed by City

A sanitary landfill garbage disposal system in the Topaz Heights area has been proposed again by city council.

It is the third time the proposal has been made since 1954. Both previous times, reaction by residents was so heated, the matter was dropped.

Adoption of the scheme would delay expenditure of $226,952 for a new garbage wharf for as long as 10 years—and perhaps indefinitely.

Council Thursday gave authority to public works committee to canvass residents and hold public meetings. Aim is to convince them that a sanitary landfill would beautify the area and would create no nuisance.

"I don't think there is the slightest hope of getting it through," city engineer James C. Garnett told council. He said it would be "wonderful" if it were possible. Outlay for equipment for a fill would be about $30,000.

PARTLY GRAVEL PIT

Area considered adjoins Topaz Park and is now partially a gravel pit. About 15 per cent of the area is owned by the city and the balance by Baker Brick and Tile. It is four acres in area.

Works committee asked council to approve reconstruction of the present city garbage wharf, which Ald. J. Donald Smith said was "more essential than a new fire hall in the opinion of the committee."

Ald. Arthur Dowell said he couldn't see why the cost should come from this year's budget when all council needed was "courage" to launch the land fill scheme.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said he thought most of the people who opposed the scheme before had now left the Topaz area. He suggested a public meeting. "To see whether they are converted or not . . . do they want to live with that terrible pit beside them, or do they want to see the area developed?"

DONE ELSEWHERE

Ald. Austin Curtis pointed out land fill is going on "all over the world."

"Even while it is going on the appearance would be better than at present," he thought. He said the system calls for nightly burial of garbage and is free of rodents.

"If this council has the courage to start it, within six months the people will think it is the only thing," said Ald. Arthur Dowell. "If at first you don't succeed—try, try again."

Ald. Smith and Ald. Hugh Ramsay were the only aldermen opposed to land fill in the Topaz area.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson said she had examined the area west of the park. "I wouldn't have my children playing anywhere near that horrible hole."

PARADOXICAL STAMP CAPTION BRINGS SLY U.K. REBUTTAL

LONDON (Reuters)—The London Daily Telegraph today published a photograph of a Canadian stamp depicting a man firing a gun with a dog poised to seek out his kill.

Across the stamp is a postmark carrying the message:

"Conserve Canada's wildlife." The photograph's caption: "Make up your mind."

Owl on Prowl Attacks Humans

First United Church will add a social suite to Fellowship Hall at 936 Balmoral. The two-story building will be of concrete construction. Architect is Charles E. Craig and Farmer Construction is contractor.

A $32,000 addition will be built at 733 Discovery Street to an apartment block owned by Mrs. J. Szpodonski.

Alberta Deputy Ministers Get Hike to $10,360

EDMONTON (CP)—A general increase in salaries for Alberta deputy ministers has been authorized through an order-in-council passed by the provincial cabinet this week.

All now receive $10,360 a year with the exception of deputy attorney-general Harry J. Wilson, who receives $12,880. His salary includes $2,500 in fees for court work.

The new salary figure for other deputy ministers incorporates a $360 cost-of-living bonus, which has been discontinued as such. The increases were made effective April 1.

Prior to introduction of the schedule, salaries ranged from $8,000 to $10,000.

Police Aid Requested In School Rowdyism

By PETE LOUDON

School board authorities called in city police today in an effort to stamp out rowdyism at schools here. School trustees Mrs. D. P. W. Maunsell and Mrs. W. W. McGill, accompanied by senior municipal inspector of schools John Gough, met with Victoria Police Commission behind closed doors.

School authorities were mum on results of the meeting but police commissioners stated later, "The matter is under review."

Mayor Percy Scurrah, head of the three-man commission, said the school trustees "have a problem" with regard to rowdyism. The chief was able to advise them.

Asked if police action is planned in view of several recent reported disturbances, the commissioners replied, "The police commission has taken cognizance of the situation. It is under review."

It is understood incidents have occurred when former students of various city junior high schools have returned to the grounds and have defied teachers. On one occasion a principal was struck in the face by a juvenile.

A number of juveniles, including ex-students, were later dealt with by juvenile court. A Victoria teacher said Monday it is not uncommon to have young hoodlums in city classrooms threaten a teacher with assault. He said he estimated 5 to 7 per cent of youngsters attending Central Junior High School and S. J. Willis Junior High in Victoria are "seat warmers" and unfit to stay in school.

Most trouble is generated at the junior high level as after age 16 many of the misfits drop out of school, another authority stated.

Pearson To Speak Here May 16

External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson will address a public meeting in Victoria May 16, it was announced today.

Mr. Pearson is one of a number of federal cabinet ministers planning to take part in the election campaign here.

Defence Minister Ralph Campney will accompany Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to Victoria May 4.

There has been a change in the prime minister's itinerary. He now will arrive in Nanaimo at noon Saturday, May 4, and address a luncheon meeting of Nanaimo and Comox-Alberni Liberals at the Plaza Hotel.

Mr. St. Laurent will drive down Island in the afternoon to address a rally that evening in the Royal Theatre.

After attending church services Sunday morning, he will return to Vancouver by yacht from Sidney.

Saanichton Pathologist Dies in Wales

Distinguished Saanichton plant pathologist Walter Jones, M.B., B.Sc., M.Sc., died Wednesday in Wales during a visit to his birthplace in Glaslyn, Felinbach, Lampeter, Cardiganshire.

News of his death was received here by Dr. William Newton, officer in charge of the plant pathology laboratory. A bachelor, Mr. Jones, 67, had served on the laboratory staff for the past 28 years.

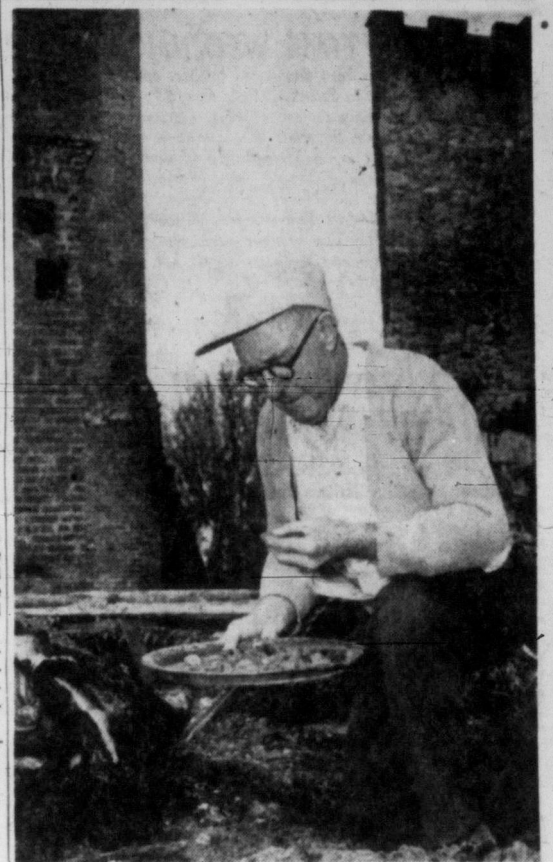

"His investigations of plant diseases have been of inestimable value to the farmers of British Columbia," Dr. Newton said.

There is hardly a potato grower who has not profited by capitalizing on Walter's intimate knowledge of plant diseases and for years the hop growers depended upon him for guidance in the control of hop diseases.

Mr. Jones has left a permanent record of his research in the form of 25 scientific papers in Canadian and American journals. Reprints of his papers have been sought by scientists in most parts of the world.

He obtained his degrees from the universities of Aberystwyth, Wales, and California.

Military Medal winner for outstanding service in the First World War, he took an active part in veterans' affairs and has held many offices, including the presidency, in the Saanichton branch of the Canadian Legion.

ONE-TIME PROSPECTOR Harry Mellson who has been houseman for the lieutenant-governor the last four years, now finds himself prospecting Government House ruins for gold, silver and diamonds.

GOV'T HOUSE RUINS SEARCHED

'Placer Mining' Locates Jewelry

By AB KENT

Destruction of Government House last week opened up a whole new field of prospecting for a former B.C. interior miner.

Thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and valuables have been sifted and panned from the cinders left by the spectacular blaze which virtually levelled the lieutenant-governor's home.

It was left to houseman Harry Mellson, aided initially by the RCMP, to locate personal valuables of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, mostly Mrs. Ross' jewels.

Harry, spry in his 70's, forked, spaded, strained and fingered his way through heaps of debris, soggy carpets and plaster, crumbly cinders and dusty ashes, but emerged with most fragments of the jewels.

It was strange contrast to seeking gold after the turn of the century in B.C.'s north country where Harry helped pioneer the rugged interior by contracting early construction work on the PGE.

He has saved diamonds from rings, clips, pendants and tiaras, although their mountings fared less well.

The low melting point of gold and silver caused items made from these precious metals to run like water in the tremendous heat from the fire. Some was recoverable.

The watch had been left at the lieutenant-governor's bed side on the second floor.

Unburned contents of the room crashed with the floor into the mansion's dining room and lie in a layered tangle of rubble, conduits, pipes, flooring, studs, joists and ashes—tons of ashes packed around the rest of the ruins like a huge, black and grey layer cake.

Harry digs through the strata more like an archaeologist than a miner, tossing aside bed-springs and wiring, chunks of mattress and the odd piece of clothing.

He carefully scrapes away the cinders until he bares the bedroom carpet, then scatters each shovelful onto a large pile like

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Can you tell me the author of the lines "There's nothing worth the wear of winning but laughter and the love of friends." —R.K.

A.—The lines you quote are the last half of a quatrain by the Englishman, of letters Hilaire Belloc, (1870-1954). The first two lines read: "From quiet homes and first beginning, Out to the unbegotten ends." It was contained in a volume titled "Occasional Verse."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

'HAIRY GIANT THREW TREES AT ME'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A first-hand account from an Indian, who once came face to face with a hairy Sasquatch and barely escaped with his life, was given in an exclusive interview to the Times today.

The dramatic and hair-raising encounter with the hairy giant was related by 84-year-old Jimmy Fraser, grandson of Chief Cheatchlatch, a highly respected resident of the Songhees Reserve.

"His eyes glowed like the noonday sun, and the hair on his body was like moss on the rocks," was the old Indian's description of the giant. "His voice sounded like the roar of surf from a heavy sea."

Jimmy's sincerity is not to be doubted as he enjoys an honorable reputation of being the Indian band's historian. In addition, he has won nationwide fame as a weather-prophet. He foretells the weather by reading the signs of nature.

His predictions on weather have been so accurate that the Dominion Weather Bureau has been tempted at times to get a "tip of what's coming" from Jimmy.

In telling his story, Jimmy at the same time squelched the claim that Sasquatch exist in the vicinity of Harrison Lake or Agassiz.

The people of Harrison Lake, he said, had confused Sasquatch with two timber giants which roam the hills of the north Fraser Valley.

His advice to the mainlanders is to give up hunting for the giant and to come to Vancouver Island to search for him.

ALWAYS HERE

"Sasquatches have always lived on Vancouver Island," he said. "You will find them now deep in the hills where the mountain flowers grow."

The old Indian's encounter with Sasquatch?

He related that in his youth he was pursuing a young deer up a mountain slope near a lake in East Sooke. On reaching the summit he could find no trace of the deer. He was about to re-trace his steps when he heard a deafening roar.

"At first I was like a frozen man," he said. "Even the rocks trembled."

"I looked up and there not far away was a hairy man—maybe 18 feet high—as tall as the mountains tree. He held the deer."

Jimmy recalled that his guardian spirit is the wolf who has endowed him with a pair of fleet legs.

"I turned and ran like the wind," he said. "The giant hurled trees after me. The trees can still be found rotting on the slope of the mountain."

Jimmy said he never went near the mountain again. His description of the mountain where he saw Sasquatch seems to indicate that it is Mount Matheson, near Rocky Point.

The old white-haired Indian took great pains to explain that hairy giants do not go out looking for trouble. They shun people, he said.

"They are only dangerous when they run into people," he said.

Jimmy said since South Vancouver Island has become settled the hairy giants have moved into the interior of the Island where no man treads. Jimmy said he had heard that a Mrs. E. B. Tinkham of Port Angeles, was bringing to Victoria Sunday a "Shwein-burkel," a unique shotgun, for hunting the hairy-giant.

The old Indian shook his head: "I hope she can run as fast as a hare," he said.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Pensioners at Kiwanis Village were treated to a fish feed Thursday, courtesy of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association. The fishermen, who also have emptied their nets for the Surplus Food Stall, donated a 60-pound catch to the 30 elderly residents.

Everett Booth, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of vagrancy and was sentenced to one month in jail.

Const. David Glancy found Booth in a garage in the 700 block Pandora, where the man said he intended to spend Thursday night.

More than 35 Hungarians will be in the audience at a free showing of three films on British Columbia in the Public Library music room tonight at 7.30. The films, supplied by Victoria and District Film Council, will be "B.C. Canada's Pacific Gateway," "Skeena River Trapline" and "Under Western Skies."

Victoria police commission today passed a police budget of $328,331 and a police court budget of $114,892. Wage increases boosted the police budget about $96,000 over last year, including fringe benefits, while another $6,000 was added by increased costs of operation. The court budget was slightly reduced from 1956 estimates. City council will study both next week in hopes of reducing them.

Red Cross campaign exceeded its goal again this year with a total of $80,255 in donations. The campaign has now officially closed, although donations are still coming in, secretary Mrs. R. J. McKee said today. Red Cross target had been $79,500.

Hon. R. W. Mayhew, honorary colonel of the Canadian Scottish, will conduct the annual inspection of the 110-member University School Cadet Corps (Canadian Scottish) at the school at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Victoria branch of the War Amputations of Canada will be presented with branch colors Sunday at 3 p.m. at a ceremony in Veterans' Hospital. The branch recently acquired property on Oak Bay Avenue as a memorial centre, headquarters and clubroom.

FIRST TIME GROWN ON CONTINENT

Unique Primulas Highlight Alpine Exhibition in City

Alpine flowers which have bloomed for the first time in North America are on exhibition at the annual show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society which opened at the Crystal Garden today.

The show continues until 10 tonight and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The unique plants, primulas, were brought to Victoria by Mrs. A. C. U. Berry, of Portland, Ore. They were grown from seed supplied by the Royal Botanical Society, the largest plant collection organization in the world. The seeds were collected by a British plant expedition to China a few years ago. Other exhibits include a spectacular display of rock garden rhododendrons and new varieties of daffodils and narcissi. One of the most attractive rock plants is a creeper with white flowers, found in the vicinity of Victoria.

The places where this plant is found is a "top secret" among plant collectors. The show, the largest of its kind in North America, also features many exotic flowers.

MAYTIME WEDDING

The engagement has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Noye, 785 Middleton Street, of their daughter, Phyllis Vera, to Mr. Paul R. Simpson, son of Mrs. Dorcen Simpson and the late Mr. Harold Simpson. The marriage will take place on May 18 at 8 p.m. in Metropolitan United Church, with Rev. F. E. H. James officiating. Mrs. Marjorie Bowden will be matron of honor, and Miss Elaine Fisher, Margaret Tabet and Penny Watson, bridesmaids. Miss Alanna Bowden will be flower girl. The groom-elect has asked Mr. Gary Gilbert to be best man and Mr. Don Garret, Mr. Lorne Bowden and Mr. Dick Sleep to be ushers. (Photo by Howard Phillips.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Fresh Produce From Local Markets Appearing in Town

By PENNY SAVER

If your shopping list is all made out, let's go, for it's Friday again and time for marketing.

As I took a preview tour of the vegetable and fruit markets this morning, I found a wonderful selection of foods for you. I found green peas, fresh and ready to be shelled, selling at two pounds for 55 cents. Green beans are another favorite at 39 cents a pound. Next to its look-alike neighbor, cucumber, (little ones at five cents each), I saw zucchini squash. Have you ever noticed how hot zucchini, laden with butter, pepper and salt, tastes much like corn on the cob? It has a tempting flavor that adds interest to a meal. They are 37 cents a pound.

If you're in the mood for a salad, you can buy celery at 39 cents a stalk and green onions are two bunches for 19 cents. Lettuce is 25 cents a head, and radishes are two bunches for a quarter.

Other vegetables, at good prices and excellent quality, include broccoli at two pounds for 43 cents and asparagus, 29 cents a pound bunch. Fresh spinach sells at two pounds for 35 cents, 20 or 22 cents a pound, depending where you buy. Globe artichokes are 29 cents each, and parsnips, 29 cents a package.

I found fresh strawberries at 39 cents a box, and locally-grown rhubarb, two pounds for a quarter.

spread with process cheese. Doesn't it sound good for crackers and nibbles? A tin is 59 cents. Jars of hamburger cheese spread are also popular and sell at 49 cents a jar. More cheese . . . this time packaged pineapple cream cheese that is a real taste treat. It sells by the ounce, and an average-sized package, four ounces, costs 22 cents.

Bread squares to be used as croutons or for dressing comes in large boxes, ready to be used. The tiny squares can also be used to decorate creamed dishes or casseroles, and are really tasty. A box costs 35 cents.

As many of you know, you may also buy packages of bread crumbs, which have numerous cooking uses, for 20 cents.

Shirley Fulton Wed In Seattle Ceremony

Miss Shirley Ann Fulton, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Fulton of Victoria and the late Mr. Fulton, recently became the bride of Mr. Paul R. Simpson, son of Mrs. H. S. Noye, Seattle, and the late Mr. Green, in a ceremony in First Presbyterian Church, Seattle.

Given in marriage by her uncle, L. D. Fulton, Yakima, Wash., the lovely bride wore a white ballerina-length dress of fine lace with scalloped neckline and three-quarter sleeves. Her elbow-length veil of white hand-rolled net was complemented with a Juliet cap of lace studded with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations centred with a white orchid.

Mrs. G. Cameron, Victoria, was her only attendant. She wore a gown of pink tulle with net overskirt in ballerina-length. She wore a white feathered duster in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of white feathered carnations.

The groom's brother, L. Green, was best man.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Introducing a new daughter-in-law:

I am so uneasy, I am almost frantic. Two weeks ago my son married a girl from a well-to-do family. As he has been assigned to overseas duty, the wedding date was moved up and we were unable to attend on such short notice. We haven't met the bride yet, but they will be here in two weeks for a short visit. As Louise Davis I will have to introduce the bride to our friends and relatives, what should I say? I am nervous because we are considered middle class. We don't intend to put on airs, but I don't want to embarrass my son or his bride.

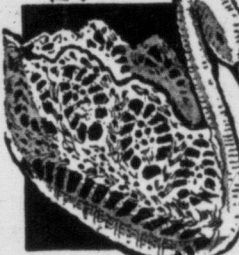

Louise Davis answers:

I am sure that you have no need to be uneasy. Relax and accept your son's bride as one of the family. Just be your own natural self and forget that the bride comes from a well-to-do family. Don't let wealth impress you, for money isn't everything. It doesn't buy breeding or character. I am sure that you will all get along beautifully, especially if you don't try to put on airs or be self-conscious. Don't forget that the bride is on the spot too, for she will be meeting for the first time her husband's mother, father, relatives and friends. Be natural when introducing her. There are several ways of doing it, but I think the best way would be to say the first thing that comes into your mind. You will find that the easiest, rather than memorizing a formula. For instance, you could say, "Jane, I'd like to have you meet one of our dearest friends, Mrs. Jones." Or, "Jane, I want you to meet your new aunt, Aunt Helen Beach, and this is your Uncle John Beach." Of course, your son will be around to help with the introductions. The main thing is to BE YOURSELF. You needn't apologize for anything, even subconsciously!

Can Lose Up to 10 Pounds On 9-Day Reducing Diet

As those of you who have been reading this column for the past five days know, I am offering you my nine-day reducing diet. Today I want to use my question box to answer some of the questions women ask about this diet.

Q—"How much do women usually lose in nine days if they really stay with the diet?"

A—"From five to 10 pounds, depending on the individual woman. Many factors enter into this, such as metabolism and physical activity."

Q—"Can I start this diet and then repeat it once in a while? I have an awful lot of weight to lose."

A—"Yes. Start with it and then add 300 or 400 calories daily. Once in a while repeat."

Q—"I have only 12 pounds to lose. I will follow the nine-day diet until I have lost those. Then how many calories should I have daily in order not to gain again?"

A—"The best way is to experiment. Your ideal weight depends on so many factors. Add 500 calories daily and watch the scales. If you continue to lose, add another 200. If you gain cut back again."

Police Nab Four Suspects In $14,000 Hotel Robbery

(From The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—Four suspects, all in their early 20s, were arrested by a 12-man team of police detectives and commandos less than an hour after the Drake Hotel in downtown Vancouver was robbed of $14,500 Thursday afternoon.

Police credited a girl of 18 and a boy of 13 with providing the clues that led to the arrests.

Charges were expected to be laid today.

Three men were apprehended at 3:30 p.m. In a room of the Marble Arch Hotel, half a mile from the waterfront hotel where the holdup occurred at 2:30 p.m. The fourth suspect, described by police as a lookout, was arrested in a hallway of the Marble Arch.

The three were counting a huge pile of currency spread over a bed when Supt. Ben Jelley and Det. Sgt. Ian McGregor went to the first-floor room and arrested them.

A loaded automatic pistol was found in the room, police said.

The two young witnesses, Jack Mills and Joy Boyer, gave police a description of the car in which the bandits fled from the holdup scene. Minutes later Const. Bill Simmons spotted the old model car parked two doors from the Marble Arch.

NO RESISTANCE

The teen-agers were driven to the Marble Arch in police cars and identified the vehicle spotted by Simmons. Squads of police surrounded the hotel while the arrests were made. There apparently was no resistance.

The daring daylight robbery was executed by two young men, one of who wore dark sunglasses and carried an automatic pistol. They forced Harry Low, assistant manager of the Drake, to open the office safe, then scooped up the entire $14,500 which the hotel received by armored car Thursday morning to handle the cashing of cheques in the beer parlor.

FISHERMEN BACK UNION

VANCOUVER — A renewed meeting between fishing-boat owners and union representatives broke down Thursday night. No progress was made towards settlement of a strike by 1,000 B.C. halibut fishermen.

The meeting, which lasted less than an hour, came shortly after halibut fishermen voted confidence in the negotiating committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Iftd.).

The union said 73 per cent of the membership voted by secret ballot to endorse the union's stand. A spokesman for the left-wing union declined to say how many members voted.

The meeting produced new offers by the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association which were rejected by the union.

FRUIT INDUSTRY PROBE

PENTICTON—Canning more of British Columbia's fruit crop instead of selling it fresh may return a better profit to growers, a royal commission was told Thursday.

Fred Mathers of a New Westminster fruit cannery presented the idea on behalf of the Canned Foods Association of B.C. to E. D. MacPhee, who is conducting a one-man inquiry into the province's fruit-growing industry.

Mr. Mathers said a proper cost analysis would show whether canning or selling fruit fresh pays best.

UNIONS TO MERGE

PIONEER—Members of two mining locals have voted to amalgamate and union representatives from both locals will apply to the Labor Relations Board for certification of a new local.

Members of Pioneer Local 683 and Bralorne Local 271, both of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), voted 235-11 Wednesday night in favor of combining the two locals.

BRAN MUFFINS

Folks! Here are muffins to really butter up to. The old-fashioned kind, with wonderful All-Brans flavor. Make 'em tonight!

- 1 cup Kellogg's All-Brans
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup soft shortening
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar

Combine All-Brans and milk. Let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and shortening; beat well.

Sift together: flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add to the first mixture, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pan 3/4 full.

Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes.

Yield: 9 muffins.

NO DISCUSSION ON HOODLUMS SAYS WILLISTON

PRINCE GEORGE — Lands Minister Ray Williston met Thursday with Mayor John Morrison and city council members.

Mr. Williston said later there was no discussion of hoodlums here. A small gang of hoodlums has been reported terrorizing the city. The minister, who represents Fort George in the legislature, was reported earlier to have planned to discuss the problem.

Dictatorial Legislation Kills B.C. Mining Says Industrialist

VANCOUVER (CP) — Industrialist Austin C. Taylor says dictatorial provincial legislation is killing mining in British Columbia.

Mr. Taylor, president of Bralorne Mines Ltd., told the annual meeting of shareholders here:

"How far this fellow (Premier W. A. C. Bennett) thinks he's a dictator, I don't know, but what the B.C. government is doing to mining in this province is a very serious matter."

"I don't know whether they have killed the golden goose, but they are certainly eating the eggs."

Mr. Taylor was referring to major changes in the Mineral Act passed by the legislature in March.

The new mining laws are contained in two bills: One provides for taxing ore in the ground and the second abolishes the system of the Crown granting mineral claims and introduces a method of leasing.

"The present government," Mr.

Taylor said, "has put in acts very detrimental to mining. I would go so far as to say they are detrimental to more than mining."

He asked shareholder Archie MacGillivray, who had returned from a visit to the Yukon, to tell what mining men in northern B.C. think of the legislation.

Mr. MacGillivray said the exodus of prospectors from B.C. to the Yukon is "quite something. They no longer know where they stand with the B.C. government but they're left alone in the Yukon."

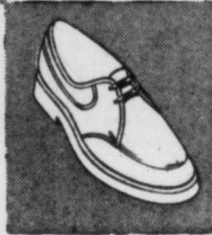

with the B.C. government but they're left alone in the Yukon.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston Thursday night defended B.C.'s new Mineral Act, which does away with Crown grants on mineral reserves and introduces leasehold, as being in the best interests of B.C. Large firms will no longer be able to hold large reserves and "sit" on them, he told a Social Credit rally.

"If it is found that mining claims can be practical and feasible producers and the holder sits on them, then the leasehold gets tighter."

Engine Ousting Man In Running Engines

BY JOHN E. BIRD
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa (CP)—Human coordination no longer is accurate enough to guide today's complex machinery or precise measuring equipment. It is being displaced by another product of man's ingenuity—automatic control gadgets.

Man has a role to play where his power of reasoning is preferable to the inflexibility and danger of failure of automatic control systems.

An automatic device that could detect a change in the tone of an aircraft engine or a weakness in the controls, weigh the pros and cons of a forced landing and then execute one still has to be invented. Man's ability to think puts him above the machine in an emergency of this kind.

THE HUMAN FACTOR

Until recent years measuring instruments were an aid only to manual measurements by man. As of machinery, aiming of guns or driving of vehicles was good or bad depending on the skill or the mood of the human controlling the operation.

"On every hand demands of speed, power and precision are causing a change in the relation to the machine," say J. A. Tanner and C. A. M. Smith of the National Research Council's aircraft and instrument laboratory. "The resulting change undoubtedly will affect our potential productivity and standards of living."

The two scientists quoted three examples where the task of controlling or measuring often is too difficult for the average unaided human.

1. Training periods for pilots and navigators of high-speed jet aircraft are becoming longer and the number of failures greater.

2. Precision of control required in many industrial processes makes manual control uneconomical.

3. Scientists are finding it impossible to cope with the speed and accuracy demanded by some of today's more complex experiments.

VARYING TIME LAG

Experiments have shown there is a time lag of about two-tenths of a second before the hand acts on a message recorded by the eye. The tests also have shown that this time lag never is constant.

Mr. Tanner and Mr. Smith describe this variation in the time lag as "the will-o'-the-wisp nature of the human agent" as an operator of automatic machinery.

As a result, the monitoring function of the human in reading and interpreting instruments and in many cases deciding what corrective action should be taken, is being replaced by automatic devices. Instruments which formerly measured and indicated now are being equipped and used to measure, indicate and control.

"These steps have been highly significant in the development of instrumentation," the two scientists say, "for they have not only freed the automatic control system from the limitations of the physical and nervous systems of the human, but they have also relieved the human of many monotonous monitoring tasks."

SIMPLE EXAMPLE

A water-level gauge developed by NRC is a simple example of the automatic principle. Prior to its development tests of water surface elevations on scale river models were made by trained technicians.

Readings were taken by means of a point gauge. When the point of the gauge met its reflection in the water a reading could be taken on a micrometer.

"The over-all accuracy of these measurements, made by several human observers, was intolerably low," Mr. Smith says. "Not only was the setting of the point gauges tedious . . . but when the water surface was subject to periodic movement, the human observer became quite inadequate as a measuring means."

A complex automatic measuring instrument was developed to replace the human observer. The exact elevation is transmitted electronically to a self-recording instrument after the surface of the water.

Trans-Canada Highway between Victoria and Nanaimo is in good condition with the exception of rough portions between Miles 11 and 23, where construction is under way, according to the highways department.

Victoria St. Joseph's gets $1,000, and Jubilee, $1,262.

Social evening, with all proceeds to charity, will be held at Victoria West Community Centre, Catherine Street, Saturday at 8 p.m. Features will be bingo games, home cooking stall and tombola prizes.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngsters who ask the first question answered each day receive a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dan Phillips, age 12, Spokane, Wash., for his question:

Will the sun ever burn itself out?

If the sun were made of coal, it would all burn out in 5,000 years. This means it would last from the building of the pyramids to the present time. Since the sun has been shining on the earth for at least two billion years, we know that it is not a furnace of burning coal.

Actually, the sun is an atomic furnace. The activity is very much like the fury of the hydrogen bomb. Compared with the constantly burning sun, the bomb is a small explosion of atomic fusion. Basically, atoms of hydrogen are fusing together in fours to make atoms of helium. Several atomic particles are left over and, when the fusion process is multiplied by trillions, they provide the energy of the sun.

The fuel used by the sun is hydrogen and the sun has a plentiful supply of it. Every second four million tons of fuel is used up to keep the solar furnace blazing. This atomic action has been going on for billions of years. It is estimated that the sun has enough hydrogen fuel to keep it cheerily burning away for at least another 15 billion years. So nobody has to worry about running short of sunshine.

It's lucky for us that the sun pours out its radiant energy at an even rate. If the solar furnace blazed up in a spurt four times its usual energy, our oceans would boil. If it sank to half its power, the seas would all freeze solid.

The atomic activity of the sun is said to take place deep in the centre. Surface temperatures are about 6,000 degrees Centigrade. In the centre, the temperature may be 20 million degrees. The atomic activity is generated down in this terrific heat and pressure.

The theory of solar energy states that it is a total of trillions of small atomic fusions. The process is a cycle of six complicated steps taking about five million years. Each little fusion is a radioactive give-and-take among a number of atoms. Finally four hydrogen atoms are fused to form one atom of helium.

Two tiny particles and a small amount of mass are left over from each of these atomic packages. The surplus mass is the energy of the solar furnace and the atom of helium is the ash. Billions of these small atomic fusions are ready to release their energy every second. If this theory of solar energy is correct, each tiny H-bomb has been a-bubbling in the heart of the sun for five million years.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Larry Rhodes, age 12, of Winston-Salem, N.C., for his question:

How did the name Winston get connected with Salem?

The Moravian Brethren were the first Protestant Christians to take up missionary work. They came from Bavaria and the Indians of Pennsylvania and Georgia knew them at the start of the 18th century. In 1766, they bought 100,000 acres of land and started the town of Salem, North Carolina.

In 1849, the town of Winston was settled about a mile away from the older town of Salem. It was named in honor of Major John Winston. Through the years, the two neighbor towns prospered and grew until their borders touched. In 1913, it was decided by popular vote to make them one—the present city of Winston-Salem.

This busy town, high on the Piedmont plateau, is home to some 88,000 North Carolinians. It is a large textile centre and the biggest of all cigarette makers in the world. However, the dignity and the spirit of old Salem has not been lost in this hurly-burly of modern industry. Fifteen of the old buildings erected by the Moravians before 1800 still stand in the heart of the city.

Mining Deal Rumored

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says it is reported that McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd., possibly in association with a large United States copper-producing company, has offered to purchase approximately 35 per cent of the shares of Ventures Ltd. The newspaper says this would involve about $31,500,000.

U.S. Warns Mid-East:
Don't Meddle in Jordan

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

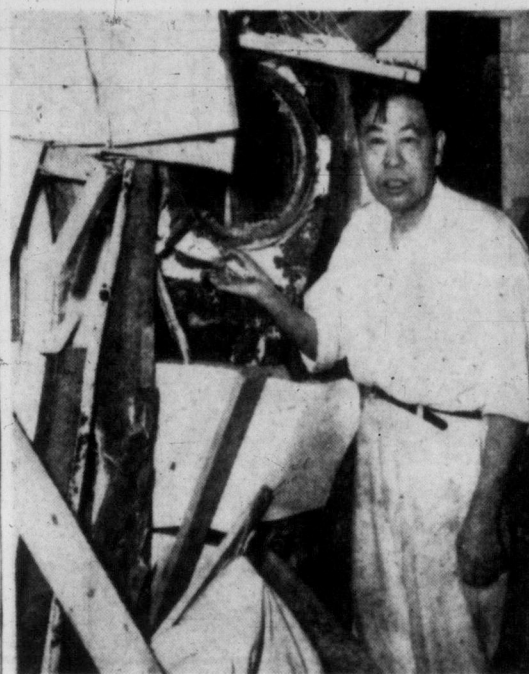

The United States has warned Israel, Syria, Egypt and other Middle Eastern countries not to worsen the situation in Jordan, where the government staged a massive clean-up of leftist leaders and general calm prevailed today.

King Hussein, the victor after 48 hours of crisis caused by pro-Communist elements, was firmly in command of things. His army held the nation in the iron grip of martial law with a ban in effect on all public prayer services.

Some estimates said as many as 600 persons had been picked up for questioning, many of them from the ultra-nationalist, pro-Soviet, pro-Egyptian and pro-Syrian parties

PRINCESS JOAN DAMAGED IN CRASH WITH FREIGHTER

Ship's cook, Stanley Duk (left) had the closest shave when prow of a Japanese freighter crashed into his cabin on Princess Joan. He was thrown from his bunk by the impact. With cabin door jammed, he had to be rescued by fire axes. Photo on right shows gash in hull of Princess Joan about 30 feet aft of bow on port side. CPR hopes to have ship back in service by first of week. (AP Wirephotos.)

The veteran CPR steamer Princess Joan brushed close to a major sea disaster at 2:05 a.m. today when she was in collision with the Japanese freighter Tatakawa Maru off Sidney.

The raking prow of the freighter sliced into the Joan, about 30 feet abaft the port bow, in a dense fog.

The passenger steamer was deeply cut. The freighter's prow plowed into a crew cabin, unoccupied at the time.

The wound in the Joan was well above the waterline. A CPR spokesman said the steamship was at dead slow at the time, and that the freighter was believed to have been proceeding at about six knots.

Smart Handling Averted Disaster

There was no panic, but some felt an "Andrea Doria" disaster had been averted only by a miracle, and smart ship-handling on the part of the Joan's officers, lookout men, and helmsman.

The Joan, night steamer to Vancouver, was just over two hours out of Victoria at the time of the crash. The Tatakawa Maru was bound from Vancouver to Seattle.

The Joan reached Vancouver only minutes after her scheduled arrival time of 7 a.m. The freighter, which received no measurable damage, docked at Seattle at 9:30 a.m.

The seaman lookout on duty when the collision occurred, said "we didn't have a chance to make it at all."

Don Cymbal, 19, said he asked the other lookout, Klaus Daniso, to remain with him at their bow lookout position when he went on duty at 2 a.m. "I wanted him to stay with me because the fog was thick and we knew another ship was close by," said Cymbal. "It was about five minutes after that we saw a light on the port side. I yelled it up to the bridge. 'I'm sure we couldn't have avoided the collision anyway.' Both Cymbal and Daniso escaped injury, although they were close to the point of collision. 'The light appeared as if it was going to pass alongside of us. Then, all of a sudden, this big bow burst out of the fog right in front of us. 'I yelled up 'full astern,' but I don't know whether or not they heard it on the bridge. Mrs. Anna Dingman of Vancouver, returning home with Miss Jean Woodrow following a vacation in Victoria, said that around 1:30 a.m. the Princess Joan, which had been moving slowly, stopped altogether. BATTLESHIPS GO

Nuclear Fleet
To Serve U.K.

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced that four of her five battleships will be scrapped this year in a thorough reorganization of the Royal Navy for nuclear warfare.

In place of the battleships—backbone of Britain's Second World War fleet—the navy will concentrate on "roving" task forces built around aircraft carriers equipped with nuclear and rocket weapons.

Lord Selkirk, first lord of the admiralty, revealed the new program today in a parliamentary memorandum on navy estimates for the coming financial year.

It is part of Britain's sweeping five-year plan to reshape her defence establishment with prime reliance on the hydrogen bomb.

Critics of the program claim it will reduce the "senior service," with its proud tradition as a great sea power since the days of Drake and Nelson, to a second-class navy.

The four battleships—HMS Queen Elizabeth, HMS Vanguard, HMS Queen Mary, and HMS Queen Elizabeth—will be scrapped by the end of 1960.

The new "roving" task forces will be built around aircraft carriers equipped with nuclear and rocket weapons.

Lord Selkirk said the chief aim of the "roving" fleet of aircraft carrier task forces is to operate for long periods independently of conventional shore bases.

At present Britain has an operational fleet of 270 vessels, including six aircraft carriers, nine cruisers, 21 destroyers and 41 submarines.

These are backed by a reserve fleet of more than 400 ships, including six aircraft carriers, 11 cruisers, 36 destroyers, 109 frigates, 19 submarines, 189 minesweepers and the battleship Vanguard.

Hinder Search
For B.C. Plane

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy clouds hampered the search today for a light plane, missing with three men aboard on a flight from Penticton to Vancouver.

RCAC officials said one aircraft returned this morning and another was on its way back from searching the area west of Hope, 100 miles east of here. A Dakota and an Expediter were searching further east under a low ceiling.

Missing since Wednesday night are: Walter L. Dalton, 42, insurance and real estate executive from Vancouver; W. Robert McLachlan, 37, head of a mortgage corporation here, and Fred McDowell, 46-year-old public relations officer and free-lance radio producer.

The three left Penticton, 200 miles east of here, at 7:46 p.m. Wednesday. They were last heard from flying over Penticton, 150 miles east of here.

Reports of wreckage washed ashore on Lasqueti Island in Georgia Strait have been discounted as a clue to the missing plane.

B.C. Drops Plan
For Temporary
Gov't House

(See also Page 19)

Plans to find a temporary Government House for Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross have been dropped, Works Minister W. N. Chant said today.

It is understood Mr. and Mrs. Ross will continue to use the vice-regal suite of the Empress Hotel while a new residence is being constructed on the site of the old building destroyed by fire last week.

Government House offices are now located in the main Legislative Building.

FOR CENTENNIAL

Premier Bennett said at his press conference Wednesday he still hopes that the new Government House will be completed for the B.C. centennial next year.

Plans for the new building were to be discussed by the cabinet today.

The premier said he hopes it will retain the same "atmosphere," particularly inside.

Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross apparently decided against making a move into a temporary residence. They are leaving this weekend for Europe and will be away for the next six weeks.

Approaches were made to owners of a few homes in the Victoria area suitable for a temporary Government House before it was decided to continue the present arrangement.

WENNER-GREN DEAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two top executives of the CCF indicated today the Wenner-Gren deal in northern British Columbia will be used as anti-Social Credit ammunition in the coming federal general election.

Robert Strachan, provincial leader of the party, said in his opening address to the 24th provincial CCF convention that the multi-million-dollar industrial proposal "clearly indicated that Social Credit is carrying out the give-away policy of the coalition government."

Mr. Strachan's views were echoed by Alex Macdonald, president of the B.C. party, who said that "never was the alliance of big business and government more obvious" than in the Wenner-Gren deal.

FAST WORK AS 'COPTER CRASHES

Three Rescued
From Strait

A United States Navy helicopter crashed in Juan De Fuca Strait about 20 miles from Victoria Thursday, and three men aboard were saved by prompt action by the Port Angeles Coast Guard.

The survivors were in the water for less than 20 minutes before being picked up by a coast guard helicopter.

The crashed craft was on a routine flight to the naval air station at Whidbey Island.

Piloted by Chief Aviation Pilot A. K. Babbitt, it had picked up a passenger at the Port Angeles Coast Guard station, and was airborne at 3:11 p.m.

"MAYDAY," the operator on duty at the coast guard air station control tower, Robert Blivens, heard a "Mayday" call from the navy copter. (Mayday is the voice radio distress signal.)

The "Mayday" was repeated three times.

Blivens answered the call, but received no reply.

He immediately alerted the Coast Guard operations office, and at 3:18—two minutes after the distress call—a Sikorsky helicopter took to the air.

Following the flight plan of the downed craft, the rescue copter spotted the three survivors in the water, eight miles east of Ediz Hook, at 3:26 p.m.

All three were wearing life jackets. The rescue craft lowered a line, picked one man out of the water, and took him to the beach, near Dungeness.

It then returned, rescued the other two, and ferried them to the coast guard station at Port Angeles.

The coast guard cutters and an amphibian plane also took part in the rescue operation. The survivors were in hospital

28 minutes after the "Mayday" call was heard.

All three men were reported in good condition today, suffering from extreme shock from the cold water, and minor cuts and bruises.

Passengers in the crashed helicopter, which lies in 120 feet of water, were G. W. Huntley and R. B. Everly.

Pilot of the coast guard helicopter was Lt.-Cmdr. D. Gershowitz.

BROTHERLY DISAGREEMENT — President Eisenhower (right) laughed off criticism of his budget and his Administration by his brother, Edgar (centre). The Chief Executive said at his news conference that "Edgar has been criticizing me since I was five years old." At La Grange, Ill., a younger brother of the President, Earl (left), defended Edgar's "right" to criticize the budget, and expressed doubts of his own over federal aid to higher education. The three are shown here in Philadelphia in August, 1955.

Helicopter Firms Get Together To Standardize Charter Tariff

Executives of Canada's 14 helicopter companies met in Victoria today to hammer out a standard charter tariff for helicopter travel.

They conferred privately at the spring conference of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, and suggested rates were discussed.

The final tariff, however, will be decided at an executive conference in Quebec City next November.

"We are not aiming at a standard rate so much as standard conditions of carriage and standard methods of assessing charges," said William McLeod, superintendent of the helicopter division of Pacific Western Airlines, Vancouver.

"The closed meeting was attended by executives of the Okanagan group—biggest helicopter organization in the world—comprising Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., Canadian Helicopters of Toronto and United Helicopters of Torbay, Newfoundland.

"We are mainly concerned with contract charter work," Mr. McLeod said. "At the meeting we also discussed education of helicopter operators in technical schools across Canada."

He added that Pacific Western Airlines now operate 11 helicopters mainly in B.C. and the Yukon.

Attending the AITA conference are representatives of Avro Aircraft Ltd., Bristol Aero Engines (Western) Ltd., Canadian Ltd., De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Rolls-Royce of Canada Ltd., and other leading firms.

Meetings on industrial and transport problems, with panels and discussions, are open only to AITA members and special guests.

Delegates are taking part in a golf tournament at Oak Bay this afternoon.

GAME OFFICE SKUNKED

Pretty 'Kitty' Home in City?

Pepe le Pew, skunk sans smell, today awaits ze owner.

Pepe, a deodorized animal, is resting in the home of game warden W. J. Lemfesty, Brentwood. The skunk was picked up Wednesday near Parson's Bridge.

It definitely has an owner somewhere as there are no deodorizing stations in the woods, and besides, there are no wild skunks on Vancouver Island.

A game department official said Pepe remains unclaimed probably because the owner doesn't possess a licence.

There are no actual skunk licences, like dog tags, but to own a wild fur-bearing animal a permit must be obtained from the provincial agricultural department.

The box score on skunks to date is one found, one lost this week.

B.C. Airlines Will Continue Operation Here

B.C. Airlines, the charter line operated by Victoria pilot Maurice McGregor, will continue under its present program of expansion to operate float planes from Esquimalt. Mr. McGregor said today.

The company holds the only air harbor licence for Esquimalt.

Stocky, plain-spoken Mr. McGregor is attending a spring conference of the Air Industries and Transport Association at the Empress Hotel.

"Although developments have made it necessary to move our operational and maintenance headquarters to Vancouver, our float planes will continue to be based here," he said.

In addition, the company will have machines available at Vancouver and other bases. It operates 30 Beaver and Cessna aircraft.

Police Nab Four Suspects In $14,000 Hotel Robbery

(From The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—Four suspects, all in their early 20s, were arrested by a 12-man team of police detectives and commandos less than an hour after the Drake Hotel in downtown Vancouver was robbed of $14,500 Thursday afternoon.

Police credited a girl of 18 and a boy of 13 with providing the clues that led to the arrests. Charges were expected to be laid today.

Three men were apprehended at 3:30 p.m. In a room of the Marble Arch Hotel, half a mile from the waterfront hotel where the holdup occurred at 2:30 p.m. The fourth suspect, described by police as a lookout, was arrested in a hallway of the Marble Arch.

The three were counting a huge pile of currency spread over a bed when Supt. Ben Jelley and Det. Sgt. Ian McGregor went to the first-floor room and arrested them. A loaded automatic pistol was found in the room, police said. The two young witnesses, Jack Mills and Joy Boyer, gave police a description of the car in which the bandits fled from the holdup scene. Minutes later, Const. Bill Simmons spotted the old model car parked two doors from the Marble Arch.

NO RESISTANCE

The teen-agers were driven to the Marble Arch in police cars and identified the vehicle spotted by Simmons. Squads of police surrounded the hotel while the arrests were made. There apparently was no resistance.

The daring daylight robbery was executed by two young men, one of who wore dark sunglasses and carried an automatic pistol. They forced Harry Low, assistant manager of the Drake, to open the office safe, then scooped up the entire $14,500 which the hotel received by armored car Thursday morning to handle the cashing of cheques in the beer parlor.

FISHERMEN BACK UNION

VANCOUVER — A renewed meeting between fishing-boat owners and union representatives broke down Thursday night. No progress was made towards settlement of a strike by 1,000 B.C. halibut fishermen.

The meeting, which lasted less than an hour, came shortly after halibut fishermen voted confidence in the negotiating committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (I.W.O.).

The union said 73 per cent of the membership voted by secret ballot to endorse the union's stand. A spokesman for the left-wing union declined to say how many members voted.

The meeting produced new offers by the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association which were rejected by the union.

FRUIT INDUSTRY PROBE

PENTICTON—Canning more of British Columbia's fruit crop instead of selling it fresh may return a better profit to growers, a royal commission was told Thursday.

Fred Mathers of a New Westminster fruit cannery presented the idea on behalf of the Canned Foods Association of B.C. to E. D. MacPhee, who is conducting a one-man inquiry into the province's fruit-growing industry.

Mr. Mathers said a proper cost analysis would show whether canning or selling fruit fresh pays best.

Folks! Here are muffins to really butter up to. The old-fashioned kind, with wonderful All-Bran flavor. Make 'em tonight!

1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
1/4 cup soft shortening
1 cup sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar

• Combine All-Bran and milk. Let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and shortening; beat well.

• Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add to the first mixture, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pan 2/3 full.

• Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 9 muffins.

NO DISCUSSION ON HOODLUMS SAYS WILLISTON

PRINCE GEORGE—Lands Minister Ray Williston met Thursday with Mayor John Morrison and city council members.

Mr. Williston said later there was no discussion of hoodlums here. A small gang of hoodlums has been reported terrorizing the city. The minister, who represents Fort George in the legislature, was reported earlier to have planned to discuss the problem.

Dictatorial Legislation Kills B.C. Mining Says Industrialist

VANCOUVER (CP)—Industrialist Austin C. Taylor says dictatorial provincial legislation is killing mining in British Columbia.

Mr. Taylor, president of Bralorne Mines Ltd., told the annual meeting of shareholders here:

"How far this fellow (Premier W. A. C. Bennett) thinks he's a dictator, I don't know, but what the B.C. government is doing to mining in this province is a very serious matter."

"I don't know whether they have killed the golden goose, but they are certainly eating the eggs."

Mr. Taylor was referring to major changes in the Mineral Act passed by the legislature in March.

The new mining laws are contained in two bills: One provides for taxing ore in the ground and the second abolishes the system of the Crown granting mineral claims and introduces a method of leasing.

"The present government," Mr.

Taylor said, "has put in acts very detrimental to mining. I would go so far as to say they are detrimental to more than mining."

He asked shareholder Archie MacGillivray, who had returned from a visit to the Yukon, to tell what mining men in northern B.C. think of the legislation.

Mr. MacGillivray said the exodus of prospectors from B.C. to the Yukon is "quite something. They no longer know where they stand with the B.C. government but they're left alone in the Yukon."

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston Thursday night defended B.C.'s new Mineral Act, which does away with Crown grants on mineral reserves and introduces leasehold, as being in the best interests of B.C.

Large firms will no longer be able to hold large reserves and "sit" on them, he told a Social Credit rally.

"If it is found that mining claims can be practical and feasible producers and the holder sits on them, then the leasehold gets tighter."

Tornado Rips Oklahoma Town, Damage Heavy

HOLDENVILLE, Okla. (AP)—A tree-top-high tornado hit this small Oklahoma town Thursday night, felling power lines, smashing store fronts in a three-block downtown area and hitting some houses. No one was injured.

The Holdenville Red Cross said that about 25 or 30 homes had been damaged. A tentative damage estimate was $150,000.

One person was killed and 18 others hurt as a tornado swooped down on the little southeast Nebraska town of Milford Thursday night.

Between 75 and 100 Milford homes and business establishments were demolished or damaged.

Eyewitnesses reported "utter confusion" at Milford where power and telephone lines were knocked out.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Thunderstorms rumbled across north Texas today, threatening still more floods in this storm-battered state.

Governor Price Daniel said he will ask President Eisenhower to designate the worst-stricken areas for federal disaster relief.

TRAFFIC FINES
